BEW'S WORLD POLICIES DUE FOR PROBING

Byrd Committee to Investigate Following Wallace-Jones Battle of Words.

PEACE-MAKING FLOPS

Cabinet Members Issue New Blasts After Meeting With Byrnes.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A sweeping investigation into the policies and worldwide operations of the Board of Economic Warfare (BEW) was projected by members of the Byrd committee today as Vice President Wallace gave notice the agency soon would ask congress for direct financing.

The inquiry resulted from a hot exchange in which Wallace, head of BEW, accused Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones of obstructing the board's acquisition of vital war materials.

James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, summoned both to the White House yesterday for a peace-making conference, which apparently failed of its objective. Both principals promptly issued more critical statements.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va.) and Senator George (D-Ga.), a member, meanwhile told reporters the joint committee on production of non-essential federal expenditures would broaden a present inquiry into subsidiary corporations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to look into the allocations and committments made by BEW.

Wallace said in a statement last night that he and Jones had agreed to continue temporarily the arrangement by which the BEW draws funds from the RFC for its foreign purchases.

Milo Perkins, executive director, told the appropriations committee the BEW had issued directives to the RFC from April 13, 1942 to Feb. 1, 1943 calling for $1,438,000,000.

In his statement Wallace said he had advised Jones at a White House conference with War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes that he had no intention of reflecting on Jones' patriotism when he accused the RFC head of obstructing the war program.

"I intended to assert that the delays in RFC in acting upon projects had delayed the war effort," Wallace said. "I did not state or intend to create the impression

Where First Blow Fell In New Offensive

Foresee End of Third Strike; 170,000 Tons of Steel Estimated Lost.

BULLETIN

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — More thousands of hard coal miners returned to the pits today in eastern Pennsylvania and a couple thousand more soft coal workers returned in Alabama, reducing the number of idle in the nation's mines to roughly around 104,000.

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH — Secretary Ickes' appeal to coal miners not to stay away from their jobs "on the eve of the greatest military campaign in history" went unheeded today by approximately 130,000 men.

The return of scattered United Mine Workers locals was offset by a drive to close all mines in the upper Monongahela river valley, heart of the steel industry's metallurgical coal fields, and the refusal of 5,200 central Pennsylvania miners to work last night despite the solid fuels administrator's warning that "the complaints of no man or group of men" could be placed above the nation's military goal.

UMW district presidents John P. Busarello of Pittsburgh and John Hynes of Uniontown said, however, they believed the situation was "well in hand" and predicted an end by next Tuesday of this third in the two-month series of work stoppages which, the trade publication Iron Age estimated, have cost the war effort 170,000 tons of steel.

Busarello and Hynes were two of approximately a dozen UMW leaders interviewed who said they did not hear the broadcast last night in which Ickes said the miners' wage grievance was only one of numerous complaints—"many of them justified"—received in Washington and that "each of these special groups tends to overlook the major issue, the winning of the war, to the immediate interest of the particular group."

Approximately 200 men from a dozen mines which have been shut down since the general walkout started June 20 met at Brownsville, Pa., and voted to

City Falling Down on Aid For Farmers

Registrations to Give Help Few As Farmers Present Pleas.

It begins to look as though Mr. Mansfield isn't very much interested in getting in the crops—as though he hasn't been impressed with the seriousness of the food situation and maybe as though he doesn't think he's any good at farming.

At any rate, the response to the call for city men to give part of their spare time to helping on the farm has been to all practical intents and purposes, just about nil.

Though the emergency farm labor office in the courthouse has been deluged with requests for help from farmers who must get in their hay, the office hasn't the workers to send them. George Ganyard, county extension agent through whose office the farm labor program clears, says help must be given these farmers immediately for next year more than ever before they will need hay to feed stock.

Less than 20 Mansfield residents have registered as volunteers. Of these, nine were employes of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company who volunteered last week.

At the Chamber of Commerce which is seeking to recruit city help for farmers, it was reported that no inquiries has been received.

In an effort to contact the city men who can and will give some of their time to this all important project handbills are being distributed to local merchants for inclusion in packages. The handbill explains the necessity for the registration of the workers and provides a blank for interested persons to fill out and mail to the county extension office.

Ganyard is attempting to learn the needs of the farmers through letters which have been placed in rural mail boxes asking the farmers to indicate the number of workers needed, the time and number of days and the location of the farm.

Richland to Have Surprise Air Raid Drill Next Week

A surprise daylight air raid drill to test the alertness of the civilian defense organization will be staged in Richland and 22 other northern Ohio counties sometime next week, Ralph H Stone, state OCD director, announced today.

Other similar drills will be held throughout Ohio within the next few weeks to prove the effectiveness of the home defense against day-time bombing raids, Stone said.

The scheduled daylight alert will be the first in Richland county and OCD units will be called upon to follow the same instructions as prescribed for a black-out, except that they won't have to worry about lights.

Motorists and pedestrians will have to observe air raid regulations during daylight alert, with drivers pulling to the curb and pedestrians seeking shelter when the second siren warning is given, indicating that planes are overhead. Passengers in buses and private cars won't have to leave the vehicles to seek shelter, Stone said.

Included in the area with Richland county and scheduled to have a daylight test at the same time are Ashland, Crawford, Huron, Sandusky, Seneca, Erie, and the eastern half of Ottawa counties.

Landings Effected on New Guinea and New Georgia Islands as Adm. Halsey Aids In Gigantic Land, Sea, Air Offensive; Progress Good.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—American invaders of the central Solomons have captured Viru harbor, near Japan's Munda airbase, the navy announced today, after a fierce sea and air battle off Rendova island in which at least 65 enemy aircraft, 17 United States planes and one United States ship were lost.

The ship, sent to the bottom by a Jap sub without loss of American life, was the transport McCauley, the navy said. It was attacked after landing troops at Rendova.

Viru, a port village, had been used by the Japanese as an outpost for Munda, which lies about 30 nautical miles to the northwest on New Georgia island, and had also been employed as a place for landing supplies. Its loss by the enemy marks the first specific American territorial triumph in the currently developing offensive of which the drive in the central Solomons is only one part.

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—Twin prongs of a momentous offensive against the Japanese in the South and Southwest Pacific were thrust today by land, sea and air, with Gen. Douglas MacArthur for the first time in supreme command of operations.

They were as the tines of a fork pointed west and north toward New Britain island whose volcano-studded harbor of Rabaul can accommodate a good-sized navy and whose airdromes make of it a mighty air fortress.

The upper prong was at Rendova and New Georgia islands in the central Solomons where Allied landings were made Wednesday.

The lower prong was formed out of unopposed landings on Trobriand and Woodlark islands off the southeastern tip of New Guinea and other landings on New Guinea itself at Nassau bay just south of Salamaua where fighting is in progress.

The perfectly coordinated blows, with progress indicated at all points, comprised the first big push against the Japanese since Allied landings in the southern Solomons last year.

"All elements—ground, naval and air—are being employed in closest synchronization," said today's communique from General MacArthur's headquarters.

"Forces of the two areas are operating under their commanders, the entire movement being under the direction of the commander-in-chief of the Southwest Pacific area."

It represented activation of a master plan drawn in April at close-guarded conferences between General MacArthur and Admiral William F. Halsey whereby their respective Southwest and South Pacific commands would be merged, with MacArthur directing, for any combined operations.

The New Guinea blows were struck by troops from the Southwest Pacific under immediate command of the American general. Troops and naval forces attacking New Georgia were under Halsey. But MacArthur was over all.

The beachheads which troops are battling to expand on New Georgia place Japan's comparatively new and well developed air base at Munda within artillery range. Above Munda, only the Japanese-held northern Solomon islands stand between it and Rabaul itself.

Even closer to New Britain island is Salamaua, on a one-mile isthmus extending into New Guinea's Huon gulf and looking across Dampier strait. The landing forces at Nassau bay were reported to have moved swiftly inland "and are in contact with the enemy."

The mighty air arm of Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney struck co-ordinated blows in this new offensive. His big four-engined Liberator and Flying Fortress bombers rained nearly 23 tons of explosives down on two airdromes at Rabaul, one of the

U. S. Gets Bid From Martinique

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull said today the United States Navy had received a dispatch from authorities on Martinique requesting reopening of discussions concerning the status of that French Caribbean colony.

Hull was asked at his press conference whether the government had received from Admiral Georges Robert, French high commissioner on the island, a request for the dispatch of an American envoy to Martinique to fix up the terms for a change of French authority there. Such a step could lead to alignment at last of Martinique with the Allies.

He replied that the navy had received a dispatch from Martinique authorities and that it was being given appropriate consideration.

Traitor Quakes With Fear as He Waits (Unlikely) Pardon.

DETROIT —(AP)— Max Stephan, convicted traitor who had boasted an Axis victory in the war would save him, looked today to President Roosevelt for an order sparing him from the gallows in tomorrow's pre-dawn hours.

It was his only hope—and the White House preserved a silence which seemed ominous to Stephan and those who seek commutation of the death sentence for him.

At the federal correctional institution at Milan, Mich., where the execution is scheduled to take place, he was under constant guard, described as quaking with fright.

Historians said it would be the first execution for treason at order of the federal government, although others have been convicted and three have been executed for treason under state laws.

The half-million-dollar grade-elimination project on U. S. Route 30-N at the western edge of Mansfield won't be ready for traffic for at least another 10 days although it was predicted earlier that the route might be open by July 1.

Vance Grimes, Ashland division state highway engineer, said paving on the project 'should be completed within 10 days and it will be ready for traffic in about three days after the last concrete is poured."

The big project, which is under contract to the Lombardo Bros Construction company of Cleveland, was scheduled for completion last Nov. 30, but the contractor filed an application then with the state for an extension.

Redding Leaves, Blecker to Head Area Rent Office

Curtailment of funds for the Mansfield area rent office today brought the retirement of Lester Redding as area rent director and the appointment of Atty. George Blecker as director and rent attorney.

Announcement of the merger of the two jobs and Redding's retirement was made by Rowland D. Schell, regional rent executive, who said the Mansfield rent office has been reclassified as a combination office.

Blecker has been rent attorney for the Mansfield area since the office was opened here and was in line for appointment as director when it was specified that the director would also have to be an attorney.

Redding became director last Jan. 22 and his retirement was effective today. He will become affiliated with the Cincinnati re-

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Office of War Information is closing 12 regional and 36 branch offices, including three in Ohio, because congress has voted to slash funds for domestic services.

SOLDIER HURT

Mansfielder In England In Serious Condition.

A Mansfield soldier, Cpl Raymond Hildebrand 21, is in a hospital in England suffering from severe burns "sustained in the line of duty," it was reported today by the American Red Cross.

He is the son of Mrs. Ethel Hildebrand, 393 South Diamond street, who was notified of her son's injuries by the Mansfield Red Cross chapter.

Miriam Hooper, executive secretary of the chapter here said the information came direct from an organization field director stationed with the army air forces in the British Isles.

The report did not disclose details concerning the injuries. It said that Cpl. Hildebrand's condition was "serious" but that he was improving slowly.

Hildebrand enlisted in the service May 16, 1942.

GARDEN THIEVES GIVEN WARNING

Judge Says Maximum Penalty To Be Imposed For Those Looting Gardens.

Vandals who destroy Mansfield and Richland county Victory gardens and thieves who carry vegetables away from the gardens face stiff penalties if they are caught and convicted, city officials said today.

Municipal Judge H H Schettler, who will hear the cases in the city area, said he would impose "penalties as severe as I can make them" on persons convicted of stealing from gardens or destroying them.

"I'm a Victory gardener myself and I know how angry it would make me to have some one destroy the results of my work," Judge Schettler said.

City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner pointed out that a 30-day jail sentence and fines up to $500 can be imposed in cases of malicious destruction of property, under which heading damage to gardens would be classed.

For trespassing on gardens, the law provides for fines up to $100, he said. Dogs may be destroyed by the city if the owners fail to keep them off neighbors' gardens after police warning, Wagner said.

Cave was appointed by Postmaster General Frank Walker. He will serve until a permanent postmaster appointment is made following a civil service examination for the post.

Shoe sales set the pace for the gains as Ohioans rushed to use ration stamp 17 before it expired. The tax on shoe sales almost trebled, spurting from $14,533 to $40,410.

Show Assures Million Cigs For Yanks Serving Overseas

Mansfield is going to send a million cigarets to America's fighting men in the new South Pacific front, North Africa, or wherever they are.

That was assured last night when more than 1500 persons as their contribution to the drive, attended the midnight benefit show at the Ohio theater.

Now the drive for $2,500 is only a matter of dollars to the finish line and if Mansfielders continue to donate to the jars all over the city as they have been doing, it will be over the top by next Thursday, the wind-up date.

It was these continued donations that Author-Farmer Louis Bromfield urged when he spoke to the theater audience last night. He emphasized the importance of the drive and of all war projects. "Next to letters from home a soldier likes to get cigarets," he said.

U. S., British Subject Axis Europe to 'Design for Ruin'

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Striking from three directions, the mighty air arms of the American and British allies subjected Axis Europe to a design of destruction unparalleled in all history during the month of June, and for the enemy the worst still was to come.

During the month, Allied aerial power reached out in rising fury from bases in Britain, in northwest Africa and in the Middle East—with American and British fliers cooperating smoothly to keep the offensive going virtually around the clock.

These accomplishments stood out:

1. The unconditional surrender of the Italian fortress island of Pantelleria on June 11, first island ever conquered by air power alone; the subsequent capitulation of Lampedusa, Linosa and Lampione, and the pattern of destruction spread over Italy, Sicily and Sardinia.

2 The great destruction wrought by the RAF in its city-by-city bombing of the Ruhr valley, to whose concentrated industries Hitler looks for replenishment of his war machine.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—Although recent actions of congress have been described as a rebellion of the legislature against the executive, and not to minimize the danger of a deadlock between them, the position of congress is misrepresented in this estimate. Congress has not rebelled but has merely reasserted its authority under the constitution and reassumed its responsibility. There should be no fight between the president and congress. There should be neither victor nor vanquished, and there will be neither unless Mr. Roosevelt insists on a conflict to a decision or a knockout instead of yielding to reasonable and peaceful adjustment.

Pegler

There are those who certainly would delight to see the president humiliated and thwarted at every turn, even though this would result in still worse confusion on the home front and deferred painful effects on the fighting front. On the other side of the controversy, there are many among the president's cover-to-cover political following who would have him fight congress without the slightest compromise, even though this course, too, obviously would cause unnecessary political excitement and the same harmful results at the front.

On the record it cannot be claimed that congress has fought President Roosevelt. On the contrary, congress has consistently yielded its function and defaulted its duty. The day of the "must" legislation is not forgotten nor is it an exaggeration to say that for a long time the president did dictate laws to congress. Congress, on the contrary, has never dictated to the president, except in the negative sense in rejecting his court-packing program which was a cynical proposal made in a spirit of power, and in a few other rejections of proposals which amounted to commands.

When has congress dictated to President Roosevelt? He got all his New Deal laws for the asking, some of them socialistic and abruptly contrary to the customs and traditional thought of the American people. He got his Wagner act, and it was shown later that he permitted the labor relations board to be packed by the Communists who harassed and bedeviled decent Americans, who happened to be employers, in bitterly humiliating proceedings. Congress did "investigate" this persecution of reputable Americans whose sons incidentally, are fighting now in the war, but even after the case had been proved against the board there was no gesture of amend or apology to the victims. A notorious Communist was quietly allowed to vanish from a commanding position with no explanation as to how this enemy of the American government had been selected for a position of such power in the first place.

Labor, or unionism, has been the chief concern of President Roosevelt's government on the home front since the New Deal began. Unionism has been favored above all other elements in the vast American community and to the detriment of other elements and legitimate interests, even though it has been demonstrated that the union movement is infested with bad men in positions of tremendous power. Yet, repeatedly, the president has dictated to congress, not congress to the president, when proposals were up to place responsibility on unions and their leaders or bosses. The one recent incident, which more than any other, has been emphasized as an alarming rebellion by congress, was nothing more defiant than an assertion at last by congress of its rights to pass a law to control a serious internal menace.

It is no remedy to say that when the president's Dutch is up he is a stubborn fighter. He should not fight congress nor should he affect stubbornness in matters which are subject to adjustment and reason. There is nothing in the present situation that the president himself cannot cure by a change of attitude. It was exasperating but not necessarily dangerous in time of peace to place over millions of Americans, and even over congress, such men as Leon Henderson and Harry Hopkins who had never been to the polls or stood public inspection but had been selected by Mr. Roosevelt for personal qualities that antagonized the nation.

And Mrs. Roosevelt's associations, activities and proposals were endurable in peace but in war are seriously disquieting. Mrs. Roosevelt recently proposed one day that election campaigns be financed out of the public treasury and, a few days later, said that the domestic scene gave one a feeling that, as a whole, the people of the United States are not really prepared for democracy.

Is it too great a sacrifice to ask, for the sake of internal solidarity, that for the duration of the war Mrs. Roosevelt refrain from provocative association with controversial elements and from uttering such sentiments, considering that she partakes of the president's office and speaks ex cathedra?

The quick passage of the Smith-Connally bill over Mr. Roosevelt's veto was actually unimportant. What happened here? Congress merely performed a congressional duty according to the method prescribed in the constitution. The republic is in a sorry state if this incident must be taken to mean that the president is knocked out and that the American government now has no chief executive in domestic affairs, there being no challenge anywhere to his conduct of the war.

CONGRESS LOG JAM LEAVES WAR AGENCIES BROKE

Deadlock Over Salaries Holds Up Funds, Except 71 Billion For Army Supplies.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A log jam of money bills in congress left President Roosevelt without a nickel of emergency funds today for the first time in three years and forced many war agencies to operate temporarily on the cuff.

Although both senate and house were agreed that the executive should start off the new fiscal year with at least $89,000,000 for emergency purposes, a deadlock over withholding salaries of three federal workers blocked passage of a bill making the sum available. The measure was one of half a dozen major bills left stranded when congress adjourned overnight after a futile attempt to shove them through before the 1942-43 fiscal year ended at midnight. The only big bill cleared was a $71,500,000,000 win-the-war army supply measure.

Tied up in the other legislation were 1944 funds for the departments of agriculture and interior, the federal security agency and a group of other departments including the office of price administration the office of war information and the war production board.

Except for the urgent deficiency bill carrying the president's money, all the other measures have provisions validating any obligation incurred after June 30 provided the obligation was in accordance with limitations in each bill.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) of the house appropriations committee contended, however, that, legally, none of the agencies depending on presidential funds could incur an obligation or meet a payroll because the validating provisions have not yet been enacted. The provisions, he explained, were written into the bills on the assumption payrolls of agencies whose funds were held up could be paid with loans from the president's emergency fund.

But, he pointed out, there are no presidential funds available, and employes of the agencies involved technically began working for nothing today and trusting in Uncle Sam to pay them later.

Cannon said he understood government operation of the coal mines was being financed from the emergency fund, as well as such agencies as the war food administration, the office of war mobilization and the office of economic stabilization.

He predicted, however, final congressional approval of the $143,000,000 deficiency bill by nightfall. The only thing holding it up is disagreement between the senate and the house over a trio of federal employes declared by the house appropriations committee to be unfit to hold public office after their political philosophies were attacked by the chairman of the Dies committee.

MAP PROGRAM TO STAVE OFF SPUD FAMINE

Food Chiefs Fear Shortages Next Winter Despite Glut on Market Now.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Administration food chiefs today are actively engaged in mapping a program to ward off another potato "famine" next winter which, if unchecked, threatens to be twice as disastrous as that experienced by American consumers two months ago.

Although details of the program are not completed, food experts are frankly alarmed over the prospect that the nation may run out of potatoes about Jan. 1, unless the anticipated 1943 production of 3,000,000 acres is carefully used and distributed.

The market is glutted with early potatoes now, but a severe shortage may be felt throughout next January, February, March and April, if adequate advance planning isn't done immediately. This year's "famine" was felt in March and April.

Government control over potatoes and other important scarce foodstuffs may be established through a large-scale purchase and resale program which War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes revealed had been discussed to hold down the cost of living.

Such a program, it was pointed out, could be used not only for that purpose, but also to encourage production, assure the farmer an adequate return for his products and provide controlled consumption and distribution of the scarce foods.

In such form, it would likely meet with more favorable reception from congress, which killed the administration's subsidy rollbacks in food prices at the consumer level. Funds of the commodity credit corporation, just approved by congress, might be used for the purchase-resale undertaking, under director of the war food administration.

Some food experts, for example, advocate government purchase of the 1944 crop of canned vegetables and their resale for civilian consumption at a loss to hold down living costs.

In the case of potatoes, the government would buy up the late crop—from Maine, Idaho, New York and other states—which constitutes approximately 75 per cent of the country's total production and which will be harvested in the fall.

The government would take legal but not physical possession of the potato crop, making payments direct to producers. The crop would be held in trade channels and distributed evenly throughout the year at government direction to avoid a "famine" next winter.

AKRON — Although officials of Akron's rubber industries today crossed their fingers against the possibility of wildcat strikes due to the war labor board's re-affirming of the 3 cents an hour wage increase for rubber workers, there were only a few cases of work stoppages in the three major factories.

B. F. Goodrich company officials reported that there were a few "hotheads" who either did not report for work, or walked off the job after they had reported. Production was said to have been disrupted in two hose departments and an airplane fuel tank department.

Harley Treen, head of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company's United Rubber Workers of America unit, said that the few outbreaks of dissension there were under control, and a company official said that production was normal.

Normal production was also reported at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

Union officials asked the workers' co-operation in keeping work schedules normal, protesting, however, that the ruling of the WLB, upholding its previous decision was "unjust, unfair and contrary to all precedents of the WLB." Firestone union's executive committee made a move for a unified dissension.

Causing a five-day strike when the first decision was made, May 22, the WLB granted the 3 cents an hour raise after a special WLB panel had recommended 8 cents an hour for the 50,000 Akron rubber employes, under application of the "little steel" formula. The 3 cents raise was reached on an industry-wide basis, retroactive to last summer.

Retail Merchants' association members were nursing sore muscles today following their annual baseball game last night at Shenandoah at the yearly summer dinner and outing. A total of 55 members, wives and guests attended. Women of the Shenandoah church served the dinner. Dinner plans were arranged by the chairman, W. L. Faulkner and the program was planned by Merle Pecht, Ray Calene, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was in charge of entertainment.

Mansfield air raid wardens and auxiliary police and firemen have been disappointed for the past two nights because there was no "surprise" test blackout. Told several weeks ago by state OCD officials that there probably would be a blackout in June, the Mansfielders heard rumors that it would be Tuesday night. When the sirens failed to sound that night, the city's OCD organization felt that the test would have to be last night, the final night in June. Some of the wardens, acting on an "inside tip," went downtown both nights to be ready if the test signal came through.

Another Mansfield neighborhood will celebrate Independence Day with a parade. Children of the Bowman school district will meet at the home of Mrs. R. E. McCulloch, 195 Buckingham street, at 11 a. m. to take part in a costume parade. Prizes will be given to the children with the best costumes. Mrs. McCulloch and Mrs. Leonard Healy are in charge of arrangements. Western school children will meet at 11 a. m. at the home of Mrs. C. C. Warner, 5775 Heineman boulevard for a parade Monday.

PRAYS AS HE GOES TO CHAIR

Rape-Slayer Asks Forgiveness Before He Pays Penalty In Execution Chamber.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Tearfully begging forgiveness "if I have done anything wrong," Anthony Treat, 57-year-old Cincinnati painter, died in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary last night for the Christmas eve rape-slaying of 10-year-old Helen Sellers.

After protesting his innocence in a note sent to Warden Frank D. Henderson less than two hours before he was electrocuted, Treat entered the death chamber at 8:53 p. m. and was pronounced dead 18 minutes later.

Before being strapped in the chair, the slightly-built painter shook hands with Guard C. C. Saltmarsh, saying "I hope to meet my mother and son," hen asked to meet the warden.

Grasping Henderson's hand, thanked him for the last dinner he had eaten, asked permission to "say a blessing," then knelt in prayer facing the chair.

"I have done many things in my life," he prayed. "If I have done anything wrong forgive me. Place me with my boy and mother. I don't mean to do wrong. If I ever did anything wrong—I ask you to do this thing. Amen."

Arrested a short time after the little girl's body was found beneath a Cincinnati freight shed, Treat confessed, Cincinnati police said. He later repudiated the statement, waived a jury trial and was convicted by a three-judge court. Treat had been convicted of sex crimes on two previous occasions.

The clearings amounted to $8,215,551 last month as against $8,688,352 in May and $10,557,811 in June, 1942.

So far this year, every month's clearings have been below the corresponding month last year.

IN HOLLYWOOD-- By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Ramsay Ames doesn't look like the sort of girl who would lose a man if she chose to keep him around. She's a beautiful, fresh young thing of 19, blonde, with a glowing new California tan. She's luscious and gracious, and she has a sparkle.

And she's the champion man-loser of our town, which is the reason she's in Hollywood and pictures. Why, once in the short span of three months, she lost so many men . . . But let's start at the beginning.

Coons

Ramsay Ames lived in Jackson Heights, New York, with her well-to-do family. She went to a swank private school which boasted swimming pools, tennis courts, a telephone in every room and other intriguing conveniences to make education painless. But when she was 15, Ramsay decided she would like to work. She got a job as a Powers model, and pretty soon was doing a fashion show at the New York World's Fair.

* * *

Her evolution from model to dancer was the result of watching a conga troupe swaying to tropical rhythms. She thought she'd like it, and she joined. What she didn't know about dancing, which was plenty, she picked up by watching the others. Then she got a partner for an act, and branched out as a ballroom performer in clubs and theaters. That was how she lost her first man. He had come into the country on a six months' visa, and stayed four years. The immigration people snatched him.

"After that," she says, "I tried dancing by myself, using our old routines. But how can you dance solo what was planned for two? I gave it up, and took up singing."

So she was happy enough, singing at the Stork club, until Gus Martel suddenly presented her with an orchestra. That's when she really started losing men. The way it happened was that Gus was leaving for Las Vegas and starting a new band, so he just left his old one with Ramsay.

* * *

"That's when my troubles started," she says. "Gus gave me his musical arrangements and said 'Here.' So I started in, and I found out how hard it is to keep a band together. We'd rehearse one day, and the next day I'd come in to find somebody missing. The draft. We'd have to get a new man, and get him rehearsed. Then one of the other boys would be called. We'd have to start all over again. We kept the tailors dizzy altering uniforms to fit new people. We played a few dances, but each time we were supposed to get a club date a new batch of men would be gone with the draft. At the end of three months only two of the original gang were left."

Ramsay stuck by her disappearing band another month, then went back to Powers and modeling. A little later she came to Hollywood, got a test within a week, and made her first movie, "Two Senoritas From Chicago." Then Universal signed her, and she's going to play in "Ali Baba."

AEF TROUBLED AT STORIES OF BLACK MARKET

Soldiers Wonder If Mom and Pop Back Home Are Getting Enough Meat For Table.

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(INS Staff Correspondent)

LONDON — American soldiers in Britain are troubled at the stories reaching them from home today, describing the often chaotic meat rationing conditions there.

They read stories in British newspapers about hotel and restaurant tables literally groaning under food supplied by the black market. And they cannot help contrasting these stories with descriptions in letters from home about weary visits to empty butcher's shops.

They cannot figure it out. They think of the United States as the land of plenty. They remember the great stockyards of the mid-west, the vast herds ranging the plains. And while they know Uncle Sam is feeding a large part of the world and is having to take care of a ravenous meat-eating army of his own, they think there should be enough left over to guarantee mom and pop, and sister and brother, getting a little fresh meat each week.

They read that the American "black market in meat offers the greatest threat to American military endeavors," that the "illegal trade in meat has been so great that even buyers for the army have had difficulties," that "in many areas growing black market stocks have caused shortages to ordinary consumers."

It also is only natural that they contrast meat rationing back home with the smooth-working efficient British system they have come to know, and the grumbling back home with the cheerful, co-operative spirit in which the British seem to be making the best of their own severe rationing.

Here, the livestock marketing scheme came into force at the beginning of 1940, when short stocks made it imperative that meat supplies be rigidly and drastically rationed.

Today, the ministry of food controls all meat from the hoof to the home.

Cattle can only be slaughtered at one of the approved slaughter houses. Slaughtered cattle can only be sent to licensed collecting centers, for purchase by the ministry and distribution by ministry agents, who in fact are approved trade distributors. They, in turn, sell to retail butchers and the meat finds its way onto the table by means of the ration book. Inspection and supervision is maintained at every stage.

No one can slaughter livestock except under licenses. Infringements draw down harsh penalties.

Imported meat—and most of the meat sold in Britain is imported — becomes the property of the ministry of food immediately it is landed on the dockside. It is distributed by the ministry through the licensed wholesalers to the local butchers, under a zonal scheme which divides the country into nineteen areas and ensures each will get a fair share. Petty pilfering is about the only black market danger, and that is small.

Any attempt to establish a black market in meat was nipped before it could get going—by maximum price orders, rigidly enforced, by control of slaughtering and distribution at every stage, by heavy penalties for the most minor infringement on the part of the farmer, the wholesaler, the butcher, and the consumer.

And as a result of this rigid control, every holder of a ration book gets his or her 29 cents worth of meat, every week, with unfailing regularity.

There are no fat, juicy steaks in the restaurants and hotels, for they are treated far worse than the ration book holder. The law lays it down that hotels, restaurants and cafes get two cents worth of meat for each main meal served.

And since the law in Britain regards the black market as something which should be jumped on, and heavily, the number of eating houses serving more than a microscopic portion of meat with a meal is very small indeed.

Gliders Now Added to U. S. Weapons Ready for Invasion

Planners of the invasion of Europe now have another weapon in their arsenal. For months, the U. S. army has been training men and building gliders for this purpose. Now the gliders, capable of transporting jeeps, field artillery or a complement of 15 men in each, are ready, and the troops themselves are prepared to drop in for an unexpected call on any part of Axis-occupied Europe. Glider troops are pictured boarding their ship, left, while they are pictured, right, as they would appear to the defenders of an enemy airfield under attack by these newest air-borne fighters, Official United States army air corps photograhps. DOG FANCIER

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA—(INS)—With good reason, able Brig.-Gen. Carl Connell, of Birmingham, Ala., and Leesburg, W. Va., has become an "all-out" devotee of dog shows.

Last week, Connell entered the dogs in one of the more important Australian shows and they won six major awards. Now Connell is grooming them for national "stardom" as entrants in this country's largest exhibition, scheduled for late fall.

SOY PRODUCTS CAN 'STRETCH' RATIONED DIETS

U.S. Dietitians Say Flour From Bean Has 3 Times Protein Content of Meat.

(By United Press)

MINNEAPOLIS—When Hitler, many years ago, made out his list of necessities for his war larder, he included guns, planes, essential metals, and—soybeans.

Why the unimportant soybean? Because in this oriental immigrant he found paint for warships, lubricants for war machines, nitroglycerine for bombs, protein for plastics and, most of all—an almost perfect food for his troops and war workers.

The United Nations have given Hitler credit for many innovations and to those must be added soybeans. A recently-captured German army cookbook reveals that the Nazis have no less than 278 recipes in which soys play the major role.

But U. S. army dietitians also have found use for the soybean. Through intensive research they have found that soybean flour has about three times the protein content of meat, is an excellent source of vitamins and mineral salts, produces energy with a minimum of fatigue, builds nerves, and is alkaline in reaction.

Now with armred forces' diets firmly ensconced in the use of soys the American housewife has her chance to a helping of health.

According to a food substitute study by Northwestern National Life Insurance company, the soy bean, in years ago, never appealed to the discriminating Yankee palate. After many years of research American scientists found that through a heat debittering process the bean loses its objectionable taste and acquires a pleasant, nutty flavor.

Housewives now may add soy flour, soy grits or flakes in place of about one-sixth of the other dry ingredients with almost no change in the taste of the dish. Homemakers may also "stretch" a given amount of meat into considerably more stew, meat loaf, sausage or meat pie, the survey shows.

Perhaps the differences in soy flour, grits and flakes may be explained this way: Raw soybeans are cleaned and hulled, heat processed and de-bittered, then ground. The coarsest grind is called flakes, the next several degrees of fineness are called grits, and the finest grind is flour.

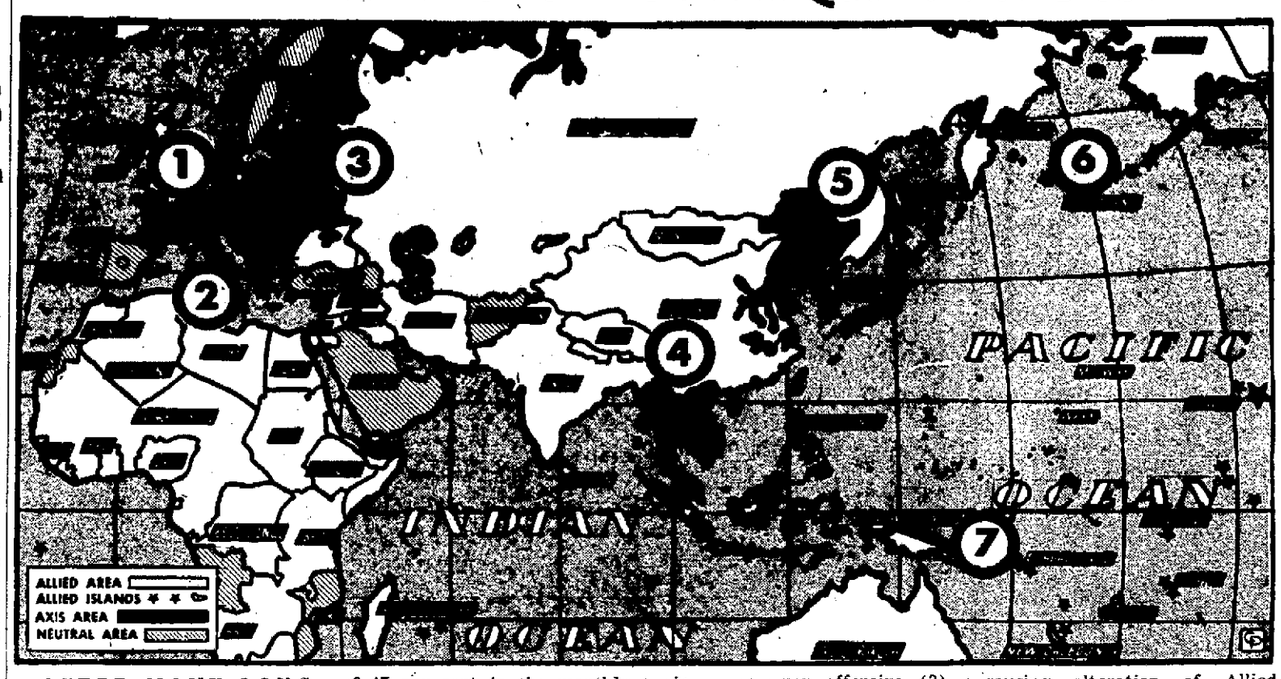
All three are identical in food value, but the flour mixes more readily with wheat flour in bread and cake, while grits or flakes, because of their bulk, are more desirable in cooked cereals, cornmeal, cookies and potatoes.

Both full-fat and low-fat soy flour are available. Full-fat contains the natural oil content of the beans, while from the low-fat nearly all the oil has been removed and it is therefore a somewhat cheaper source of protein, the survey points out.

Health-food stores have been carrying soy products in bulk for many years, but they have not been available at low prices. Efforts now are under way to insure adequate wholesale and retail distribution of soy products.

European people whose habitually leaner diets have long appreciated the value of soybeans, now command a greater majority of soy products by way of lend-lease. Americans, stirred by rationing restrictions, also are becoming increasingly aware of the food value in soy products.

Allies Poised for Offensive In All Quarters of Globe



AFTER MANY LONG MONTHS of delaying battles, and tremendous preparation, the Allies are ready to move mighty forces against the Axis in war theaters around the globe. Washington reports that an increase of 45 per cent in the monthly tonnage of bombs dropped on Germany (1) will soon be made. An "invasion fleet" of warships is concentrating in the Mediterranean (2). Russian armies, according to the Axis, are planning a summer offensive (3). Allied troops and planes are poised in Burma (4) waiting for the monsoon to end. Heavy masses of men and equipment are in readiness in Siberia (5) should the Japs make an attempt to attack suddenly, thus causing alteration of Allied plans. In the Aleutians (6), U. S. airmen are stepping up the tempo of the regular raids on the Jap base at Kiska. In the South Pacific (7) Allies strike out from Guadalcanal and New Guinea.

Britain's ENSA Performs 137,000 Shows In Year

LONDON —(U.P.)— Thirteen million service men entertained in 76,000 performances and 61,000 shows given in war factories in one year—that is the record of Britain's ENSA (Entertainments National Service Association).

Behind that record is the planning of Producer Basil Dean, who organized ENSA during the Munich crisis in 1938, and the work of any army of British actors and actresses. At maximum salaries of $40 a week, they do morale-building one-night stands anywhere from Iceland to Gibraltar, or months-long tours at home and in the Middle East.

Britain's most famous actors and singers are among the many who are contributing their talents to entertain war workers and men and women of the British and Allied services. Working with them are hundreds of other experienced performers, composers, writers, scene designers and property men —all banded together under the flag of ENSA.

$10 FOR 'U-TURN'

RENO, Nev.—(U.P.)—Angered at some remark by a passing sailor, Victor E. Montelna, 21, made a U-turn in the middle of the block to tell the sailor what he thought of him. However, what he thought of the sailor was not nearly as much as what Municipal Judge Guy Walts thought about the U-turn. He assessed it at $10.

ARMY 'FIND'

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA —(INS)— If Corporal William Batchelder, of Medina, Ohio, writes official letters which savor of the legal mind, it is with good reason.

Until his call-up, the 28-year-old Batchelder was prosecuting attorney of Medina county. Elected to the post in 1940, he still holds the title, although on foreign service. Batchelder, a graduate of the University of Cincinnati, is regarded as the "find" of the Payments and Adjustments section of the U. S. Air Service Command in Australia. His law background is utilized many times daily to solve claims problems which baffle the most veteran army officer.

Texas Sergeant Collects 612 Army Insignias

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — Sergeant Albert Johnson, 31, of Fort Worth, Texas, boasts one of the largest collections of army insignia in the world.

Now stationed at Camp Kohler near Sacramento, Sgt. Johnson has amassed 612 insignias and crests during his army career. He said he started his hobby while at Fort Bliss, Tex., where a fellow soldier had 20 insignia pinned on a towel.

He bought the collection, towel and all, and has since added to it. The largest group in his collection was obtained in the Philippines where he was stationed for 28 months. In order to get the real insignia of the second machine gun squadron of a Philippine outfit, he had to purchase a group of 185 insignias.

Although valued at $1,000, Sgt. Johnson estimates he has spent nearly $5,000 in collecting the insignias.

GET COLLECTION

ST. LOUIS —(INS)— A collection of 1,036 birds from southern Mexico, among them humming birds no bigger than the end of your thumb, arrived at the St. Louis zoo recently. The humming birds require constant care, and feeding every two hours.

The collection was made by W. J. King, owner of a reptile and bird collection firm in Brownsville, Tex., who estimates that 95 per cent of the species have never before been exhibited in the United States.

SENDS BIRTHDAY CARD

LOS ANGELES, Cal. — (U.P.) — Little consolation was found by Mrs. Anetta Rusetti in the thought that her particular swindler was well grounded in the social amenities. She told the police the man sold her an auto for which she gave him a check, but he never delivered the car. On the occasion of her birthday, however, he sent her birthday greetings which read: "I am going to San Diego. I wish you a happy birthday."

Fendrick Ends 14-Year Career as Madison High Coach

Westies Trim Taps, 11 to 0

Tires Win Free-Scoring Tilt; U. E. Wins, Too.

Westinghouse softballers were still on top in the Industrial Softball league today after successfully meeting the challenge of the second-place Tappan Stove outfit last evening on the North Lake park field.

The final score was 11 to 0, Westinghouse, and that score easily demonstrated the Westies' superiority in the contest.

In other league games, Mansfield Tires trounced Barnes, 15 to 10, at Johns park, and U. E. Local 758 beat Ideal Electric, 12 to 8, at Liberty park.

* * *

Tappan got only one hit off the offerings of "Stub" Winebrenner and Joe Kleer, a scratch single by Nick Prosser in the sixth inning.

* * *

The Westies nipped Al Harrod and Nelson Rodehaver for 12 safeties.

Winebrenner pitched superb ball during his six inning turn on the mound. He retired the first 15 men he faced. Prosser's infield hit robbed him of a hitless job. Rodehaver was equally effective in the last three frames, a base on balls to Noel Morgan robbing him of a perfect relief job.

Although he was touched for 10 hits in six innings, Harrod would have escaped with less damage had his support been better. His teammates committed eight misplays, which allowed the Westies to score five unearned runs.

Batting star was "Peanuts" Musille who cracked out three singles for Westinghouse.

* * *

Mansfield Tire probably established a record when they scored 13 runs in the third inning of their game with Barnes Electric at Johns park to walk away with a 15 to 10 triumph

* * *

The Tires blasted out 16 hits with Deschner and Lewis leading the way with four and three hits respectively.

The Barnes outfit followed the 13-run Tire blast with six tallies in their half of the fourth for a total of 19 runs in the period of one inning—which probably gave the scorekeeper the distinction of being the busiest person at the park.

U. E. Local 758 drove out 15 hits to take a 12 to 8 triumph over Ideal Electric at Liberty park.

Ideal started strong, scoring two runs in the first inning and adding three more in the third to take a 5-3 lead, but U. E. pushed over three tallies in the fourth and one in the fifth to erase the lead.

The winners iced the game in their half of the ninth with a four run rally.

Windsor went all the way on the mound for U. E. Local and allowed nine hits. His opponent, Crawford, also went the route.

REDS BUY UTILITY MAN FROM ROCHESTER

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Red Bird officials today announced the acquisition on option of Andy Timko, utility player of the Rochester International league. He is to report immediately.

Timko, 23 years old, has been in organized baseball for four years and played with the Allentown Interstate league club last season. He has played both infield and outfield with the Red Wings this year.

Yanks Win In Eleventh

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians' Jim Bagby allowed the New York Yankees only five hits in 11 innings last night but a National league castoff handed the Tribe mound ace his fifth loss instead of his eighth triumph.

First Baseman Nick Etten accounted for all of the McCarthymen's runs in the 3 to 1 victory and collected three of the five blows Bagby doled out.

* * *

Nick's first hit was a home run smash into the right field seats in the second inning. His third safety was a double down the left field line that scored two mates with the winning runs in the 11th.

* * *

The Indians contributed to their own undoing by exhibiting some unorthodox base-running and by failing to cash in on scoring opportunities.

Last night's Stadium game attracted 22,914 customers who contributed approximately $25,000 to the National War Fund, Inc. The clubs resume the series today at League park with Al Smith opposing Charlie Wensloff, the Yankees' prize rookie.

Veterans Face Youthful Stars

GLEN ELLYN, Ill. —(UP)— Two veterans of big-time golf competition and a pair of teen-age newcomers face each other today in the semi-final round of the 14th annual Women's Western Open Golf tournament.

The seasoned stars are Patty Berg, Minneapolis, Minn., professional, and Dorothy Kirby, slender Atlanta, Ga., newspaperwoman. The newcomers are 18-year-old Catherine Fox of Glen Ridge, N. J., and 19-year-old Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia, Pa.

The pairings in the round-of-four pit Miss Berg against Miss Fox and Miss Kirby against Miss Germain.

A gruelling double round yesterday was highlighted by the elimination of Elizabeth Hicks, the 1941 national women's champion from Long Beach, Cal. Miss Hicks was beaten 1 up on 19 holes by Miss Kirby when she called a violation of rules technically on herself and dramatically ended one of the outstanding matches of the tournament.

The little Californian was one up as she came to the 18th green, but there Miss Kirby sank a 12-foot putt to square the issue. On the 19th, Miss Kirby had a five. Miss Hicks missed an eight-foot putt for a birdie four and a win. The ball rolled a bare six inches past the cup and in a moment of irritation, the West Coast star took her putter and with a one-handed swipe, knocked it off the green.

Miss Hicks informed the match referee that she had not holed out and that Miss Kirby had not conceded the putt. Mrs. George Winhagen, jr., of Milwaukee, rules chairman of the Women's Western Golf association, awarded the match to the Atlanta girl.

Earlier in the day Miss Kirby trounced Betty Jane Haemerle of St. Louis, 7 and 6. Patty Berg eliminated Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., 5 and 4, in the second round and won from Marjorie Row of Detroit, Mich., 4 and 2, in the quarter-finals.

Miss Hicks Poses a Query

CHICAGO — (INS)— Golfer Betty Hicks of Long Beach, Cal., enlisted today in the SPARS, women's organization of the coast guard, and tomorrow will be sworn in at the Glen Oaks Country club where she had been playing in the women's western open golf tournament.

"I've been thinking of entering the service for months, and believe every able-bodied girl or woman who can do so should release some man for combat duty," Miss Hicks said.

"But I do think the coast guard should do one thing for me. I'd like to know the identity of the man I release."

"Object matrimony, Miss Hicks?"

"You never can tell. I haven't any boy friend."

Tribe, Yanks Dominate All-Stars

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO — An American league all-star team heavily laden with New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians was created today from nominations submitted by the eight managers for the 10th annual game with the National league stars July 13 in Philadelphia's Shibe park.

The Yankees and Indians each placed six players on the 25 man squad, which will be directed by Manager Joe McCarthy of New York, leaving 13 spots for men from the six other clubs.

Those were taken by four Washington Senators, three Boston Red Sox, two St. Louis Browns and two Detroit Tigers, and one each from the Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago White Sox.

Thirteen members of the American league team which beat the Nationals last year in the New York polo grounds, 3 to 1, placed again, including New York's catcher, Bill Dickey, nominated for the 10th straight time — he's been named for all of them — and Yankee second baseman Joe Gordon, for the fifth time. Dickey did not play last year because of injuries.

These were the manager's selections for 1943:

PITCHERS— Spurgeon Chandler and Ernie Bonham, New York, Tex Hughson and Oscar Judd, Boston; Emil Leonard, Washington; Harold Newhouser, Detroit, James Bagby and Al Smith, Cleveland.

CATCHERS — Bill Dickey, New York; Buddy Rosar, Cleveland, and Jake Early, Washington.

INFIELDERS—Ken Keltner and Lou Boudreau, Cleveland; Ruby York, Detroit; Joe Gordon, New York; Vernon Stephens, St. Louis; Dick Siebert, Philadelphia; Luke Appling, Chicago, and Bobby Doerr, Boston.

OUTFIELDERS—Charley Keller and John Lindell, New York, Chet Laabs, St. Louis; George Case and Bob Johnson, Washington; and Jeff Heath, Cleveland.

Cards Place Eight On All-Star Team

NEW YORK — (UP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, whose dashing play carried them to the world championship, took eight of 25 places to dominate the 1943 National league all-star team, it was announced today.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds each placed four men on the squad that will battle the American league all-stars in Philadelphia's Shibe park the night of July 13. The Chicago Cubs landed three players, the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Pirates, two apiece and the Philadelphia Phillies and the Boston Braves each one.

Mel Ott, New York Giants, and Billy Herman, the Dodgers' veteran second baseman, both were chosen for the 10th straight year. The only game either missed was the initial contest in 1933. St. Louis Manager Billy Southworth, will pilot the team.

The squad includes:

Catchers: Walker Cooper, St. Louis; Mickey Owen, Brooklyn, and Ernie Lombardi, New York.

Pitchers: Mort Cooper, St. Louis, last year's loser; Al Javery, Boston; Truett (Rip) Sewell, Pittsburgh; Max Lanier, St. Louis; Johnny Vander Meer, Cincinnati, the 1938 winner. Claude Passeau, Chicago, the 1941 loser, and Howie Pollet, St. Louis.

Infield: First Baseman Frank McCormick, Cincinnati; Shortstop Marty (Slats) Marion, St. Louis; Second Baseman Lonnie Frey, Cincinnati, and Billy Herman, Brooklyn; Third Baseman Babe Dahlgren, Phillies, George (Whitey) Kurowski, St. Louis, Stan Hack, Chicago, and Shortstop Third Baseman Eddie Miller, Cincinnati.

Outfield: San Musial, St. Louis; Harry Walker, St. Louis; Vince DiMaggio, Pittsburgh; Bill Nicholson, Chicago; Mel Ott, New York; Augie Galan, Brooklyn, and Dixie Walker, Brooklyn.

Sport Roundup

NEW YORK —(AP)— Just to start something, what was the fastest nine-inning baseball game ever played? . . . the major league record stands at 51 minutes by the Giants and Phillies in 1919, but we've just come across a game played by Mobile and Atlanta on Sept. 19, 1910 which was finished in 32 minutes . . . summary of Columbia football prospects by Athletic Director Ralph Furey, "we still have our schedule; we still have our coach; we still have our field—and we hope next fall we will have some players to go with them."

RECLASSIFIED.

During the Pirates' batting practice the other day, a grounder took a bad hop and smacked First Baseman Elbie Fletcher on the left ear . . . Manager Frankie Frisch hurried down to first asking: "Are you all right, Elbie?" . . . "I'm still 3-A," replied Fletcher as he ruefully rubbed his ear, "but for a minute I thought I was 4-F."

SCRAP COLLECTION.

It took Frank Kelleher, Syracuse outfielder, a full year to hit a single in the Buffalo ball park. During his 1942 appearances and until June 24, 1943 he socked nothings but doubles and homers there. Lieut. Comdr. George Halas of the Bears and Charles Bidwill of the Cardinals were the ones who kept Don Ameche from getting a national football league franchise . . . and no cracks about Halas' Bad Actors or Bidwill's Hams.

HAND-TO-HAND.

Navy Lieut. Denny Myers, instructor in hand-to-hand combat at the Iowa Navy pre-flight school, can offer concrete proof of the value of his teachings . . . coming out of the shower room the other day, Denny started to skid and only a "Judo" grip on Lieut. Bill Reed, who happened to be right there, kept him from falling flat . . . "Gad, boy," panted Denny as he pulled himself erect, "I'm glad you didn't go home early tonight."

CHAMP KAYOED IN NON-TITLE SCRAP

HARTFORD, Conn. — (UP) — Youthful Phil Terranova of New York, author of one of the ring's surprise victories of 1943—a three-round knockout over Featherweight Champion Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont.—ranked beside Sal Bartolo of Boston today as the division's top contenders.

Callura's defeat at the hands of Terranova last night was the first in the champion's career and came after a series of left hooks to the mid-section had rendered him helpless. Callura led on points garnered during the first two rounds when he ran into Terranova's body assault.

Fans Fail to Turn Out for War Games

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Major leagues scored 100 per cent for entertainment on the first of their two war relief days yesterday, but they failed to get more than a bare passing grade at the box office.

An assortment of doubleheaders, twilight and night games in eight cities drew 134,578 fans who paid $147,391 into the treasury of National War Relief(Inc., and this might seem like a lot of people and a lot of money except that games for army and navy relief in the same cities last year netted $289,412.

* * *

Under last year's arrangement, when clubs were permitted to pick their own rivals and choose their own dates, the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants played each other and wrote out checks for $60,000 in Brooklyn and $73,000 in the polo grounds.

This year's plan of having all clubs meet on the same day had its good points, but it resulted in a gate of $32,000 at Brooklyn and $17,000 at New York.

Nevertheless, the Major leagues still have another crack at matching last year's total war relief contribution of $506,830 from 16 Major league benefitt games. The club which were on the road today will stage shows of their own on July 28.

GETS NEW START

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — (AP) — Shortstop Bill Knickerbocker is back home. After 13 years of knocking about in baseball, Knick has landed wit hthe Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast league, the club with which he had intended to start in 1930.

Contest Scheduled At Westbrook

Westbrook Country club golfers will be batting 'em for keeps Sunday in the annual intra-club golf contest.

According to W. W. Grant, in charge of arrangements, between 80 and 90 golfers will participate. Activity will get underway at 1 p. m. with the highlight being a two ball foursome match.

Six prizes are offered, although the committee hasn't yet decided what the prizes will be. Committee members are Mr. and Mrs. Grant and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lewin.

Hank Borowy, Yankee hurler, has added a new pitch he didn't own last week. It's a sinker.

Grid Mentor, Board Split Over Contract

Request For Raise Rejected, Says Al; Plans To Enter New Field of Activity.

Al Fendrick, football and basketball coach at Madison high school for 14 years, has notified school officials that he won't return to Madison at the resumption of school in September.

Differences over salary for the next school year was given by Olan LaRue, Madison superintendent, as the reason for Fendrick's decision to leave the Madison post.

LaRue said that invitations have been extended to "two or three" athletic coaches for interviews with Madison officials seeking to fill the vacancy. Action to employ a coach will be taken between now and July 19 when the township school board holds its regular meeting, LaRue said.

* * *

Fendrick today confirmed LaRue's statement declaring that he was dissatisfied with the contract which the board had offered him for next year. He said he would not accept the contract, adding that he planned to enter some other activity.

* * *

Fendrick and LaRue both said that a $100 difference in the salary question led to the popular coach's decision to leave Madison.

Fendrick asserted he had informed the township school board of his request for a $200 increase in salary for next year to bring his pay to $2,400. This would be for his services as teacher, football and basketball coach.

He added that he offered the board an alternative in making a request for an increase of $50 with the provision that he would be relieved of coaching basketball and would devote his time to classroom work and football coaching.

In the contract offered him, Fendrick said the school board had declined both his proposals but had offered him an increase of $100.

* * *

"I am not satisfied with the proposition and I have decided to leave. I have several things in mind, one of them entering Boy Scout work, but right now I don't know just what I intend to do," Fendrick said.

* * *

He made it plain that there was no ill will between himself and school officials.

Superintendent LaRue said, and Fendrick confirmed the statement, that Madison officials felt they had reached the maximum salary figure for the coaching post.

It appeared that the Madison athletic program looked upon throughout the state as "tops" for a township high school has outgrown the stage of Class B school. It also is apparent that Fendrick's supervision and the enthusiasm of the Madison Booster club have been responsible for Madison holding an athletic record to be envied by other schools of its size.

Fendrick's salary last year was $2,200. His services included the daily teaching of three classes in world history and three classes and sometimes four classes of physical education.

His coaching services were in addition to this classroom schedule.

Superintendent LaRue agreed that Fendrick's classroom work was equivalent to the normal duties of a teacher.

* * *

He said that Fendrick's salary was the highest of any faculty member except the school principal and he estimated that pay for his coaching duties amounted to about $550 a year for both football and basketball. The rest of the $2,200 salary last year was for classroom work.

* * *

Fendrick came to Madison in 1929 after coaching basketball and baseball one year at Chatfield high school, Crawford county.

His 1929 football team won four games, lost one and tied one.

His 1930 grid machine won three, lost three and tied one. This team won its last two games starting a 24-game winning streak.

In 1931 and '32 his teams rolled to 18 straight victories without defeat to cop the Richland county and mid-state league title. The 1933 aggregation added four more victories early in the season to establish the 24-game win streak. His 1933 team wound up with a six and two record to again cop the mid-state championship.

The Rams won eight games and lost one in 1934 to win their fourth straight championship.

The Rams four-year championship reign ended in 1935 when they lost three of eight games, but the 1936 eleven bounced back with six wins and one defeat to again rule as champs.

Fendrick turned out his third undefeated team in 1937, the Rams chalking up nine straight wins.

* * *

In 1938, the Madison team won the state team scoring championship and had the state's leading individual scorer in Gene Harmon who chalked up 146 points. This was the year when Joe Miller made good on 26 of 30 conversions and Bill Wilkins, an end, scored 96 points to lead all ends in the state in scoring.

* * *

Fendrick's 1939 gridders won four, lost four and tied one. In 1940, Fendrick's team won only one game and lost seven, the only year his team lost more than it won.

The Rams bounced back in 1941 to win six, lose two and tie one and last season won seven out of eight.

* * *

Fendrick's 14-year record at Madison is 86 wins, 26 defeats and four ties. This is a winning percentage of nearly .750.

* * *

Fendrick's basketball teams won 76 per cent of their games, and Madison cagers placed five championship trophies in the school trophy case.

Report U. S. Troops Eager for 'Go' In Pacific Drive

WRITER SAYS YANKS HOPED FOR ATTACK

Tregaskis Recalls Fighters On Guadalcanal Wanted Action Last Winter.

(Editor's Note: What the word "go" meant to the troops on Guadalcanal when General Douglas MacArthur gave his order for the present southwest Pacific offensive is vividly described in the following dispatch from Richard Tregaskis, noted war correspondent of International News Service who landed with the first Marine detachment on the tiny island.)

* * *

By RICHARD TREGASKIS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

LONDON — The landing of American forces on New Georgia and Rendova islands must have been better than a Christmas present for marine, navy and army fighting men in the Southwest Pacific.

For months they have been stewing in their juice on steaming, evil-smelling islands.

As far back as last January, the scuttlebutt (gossip) on ships and ashore was that landings on these Japanese-held bases were imminent.

Since February, vistas of gold braid had been flying over Munda and Molumbangara in bombers, peering from the windows and obviously sizing up the situation for future landings. It is known that several plans were drawn up and discarded.

Late in February it was common scuttlebutt in the South Pacific that seizure of New Georgia would come the first week in March. When the month passed, there was a great letdown, but the continued influx of vast fleets of landing barges and naval support in the form of warships, supply vessels, mine-sweepers and newly-trained amphibious troops led to continued belief that seizure of Munda was coming soon.

The tough veteran marine raiders who fought the Guadalcanal and Tulagi battles have been itching for action during their long periods of training in the South Pacific and the same applies to the paratrooper veterans of Gavutu and Tanambogo, whose nucleus formed a large part of our parachutist strength in the area.

I made a jump with them one time and know they are absolutely ironhard.

Significance of the Russell islands in this assault upon the Japanese New Georgia stronghold should not be overlooked. Our recently constructed air fields in those islands which I saw begun by the Seabees in March form convenient bases to cover New Georgia landing operations and bombing excursions.

It is significant that on a clear day one can see New Georgia from the Russels. This proximity and our air superiority can render Jap positions untenable.

The importance of Rendova lies in the fact it commands Munda airfield not only by artillery but from the sea. The Munda region is circled about by vast coral reefs, making entrance possible only through the narrow channels which Rendova commands.

The Trobriand and Woodlark islands are significant because they form a line between the Solomons and New Guinea. It is interesting to recall that Woodlark was one of the targets of the Japanese occupation and assault force which the United States navy intercepted and scattered in the battle of the Coral Sea.

DEADLINE FALLS

8,500 Auto Tax Stamps Sold, Postoffice Reports.

Only two-thirds of Mansfield motorists who purchased auto use tax stamps last year bought the $5 stamps this year, postoffice officials reported today.

When the deadline came last night only 8,500 motorists had made the purchase. Stamps had to be on windshields of vehicles in operation today and after although the stamps are being sold until July 31.

The slow sale is in accordance with the nation-wide objection to buying stamps for the use of automobiles when their use is limited by rationing postoffice officials said.

PAYS $251 FOR HOSPITAL AID

At their monthly meeting today the Hospital bureau of the Community Fund paid out the least amount of money for the fewest cases of any month since the bureau has been in operation.

A total of $251 will be paid for the eight cases certified, three of which were certified for future payment. Two cases were rejected after investigation showed the applicants able to pay their own expenses.

Of the eight cases certifed for payment, two were wives of men in service.

COSTS DOWN

Commissioners Reduce City's Relief Share To $200.

Richland county commissioners today had reduced Mansfield's share of the city-county relief administration costs from $350 to $200 a month, Mayor W. J. Locke announced.

Without comment, the commissioners mailed a copy of their resolution authorizing the cost reduction to city officials.

Mayor Locke, who asserted several weeks ago that administration costs were too high in view of the small relief load, apparently was satisfied with the reduction.

"That's about as economical as the city could handle its own relief administration," he said.

The city's share of the cost was dropped from $550 to $350 early last spring as commissioners, who are in charge of relief administration, reduced the personnel at the relief headquarters. With only a skeleton staff on duty now at the office, the second cost slash was made possible, commissioners said.

CITY RECEIVES RATE REDUCTION

Adoption of safety measures and cooperation with the state industrial commission have enabled Mansfield to reduce its industrial compensation rate from $5.25 to $1.06 for each $100 paid to city workers, Mayor W. J. Locke said today.

The city's industrial rate in 1938 was the highest in the state. Now it ranks fifth among the state's 12 larger cities.

Cooperation with the state in permitting the industrial commission to investigate compensation cases instead of approving them without consulting the commission was given by the mayor as the principal reason for the rapid decline in the rate.

Ohio Inductees Will Be Given 3-Week Furloughs

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— State selective service officials said today that Ohioans inducted after July 15 will receive approximately three weeks furlough instead of the two weeks presently granted.

Army inductees will receive the entire three weeks before reporting for service, draft officials said, but navy, marine corps and coast guard recruits will take their furloughs in two parts.

Comdr. R. H. G. Mathews, in charge of the navy inspector's office, said the navy will continue to give inductees a week's furlough before they report and 10 days when they complete "boot" training.

"Right now the navy needs men and any change that would interrupt the flow of men to training stations for a two-weeks period would seriously interfere with the war effort," he explained.

Penney Employes Aid In County War Bond Drive

Employes of the J. C. Penney company, 15 Park avenue west, are cooperating with the Richland county War Bond committee, this month with a daily sales campaign of war bonds and stamps, according to R. M. Calene, president of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, and manager of the local store.

Today marks the opening of a nationwide sales drive of bonds and stamps in all the Penney stores throughout the country

Recognition was given the company by Secretary of Treasury, Henry J. Morgenthau, who also complimented them last year at the conclusion of their drive which netted $8,422,553.85. This year's goal has been set at $10,000,000. for the entire Penney company.

Local employes will contact individuals, business firms and organizations, soliciting their purchase of stamps and bonds. They are also cooperating with the observance of "submarine day" tomorrow when a Japanese two-man submarine will be shown at Central park from 5 to 10 p. m. Opportunity for inspection of this war craft will be given those who have purchased a war bond in the past two weeks.

Council Group Checks Sewers, Plans Program

Mansfielders who have been troubled with water in their basements after every heavy rain are due to get some relief soon.

City council's sewer committee decided yesterday to go ahead with a $5,000 storm sewer project this summer after inspecting sewers in sections of the city from which most of the complaints have come.

Councilman George C. Kyle, member of the committee, said much of the sewer work would be done in the south and west sides of the city.

Council last month appropriated $5,000 for the program, and Kyle said members of the sewer committee expressed the belief that more funds would be set up if the program costs more than $5,000.

He said it may be possible for the city to do some of the smaller sewer jobs without asking for bids on the work.

ASHLAND MEAT CRISIS LOOMS

Packing Firm Closes Doors, Owner Blames Low Ceiling Prices.

ASHLAND—Caught between OPA ceiling prices and livestock costs, Ashland county's largest meat packing concern, the R. L. Kreiling and Son Co., today suspended all but minimum operation while awaiting some solution to the meat situation.

In order to keep skilled workmen in his employe until the plant can be reopened, Kreiling has transferred them to his farm to make hay.

Kreiling decided to suspend operation because the firm, he said, is losing an average of $3.80 for every hog slaughtered and approximately $20 for each beef slaughtered.

Kreiling blames low ceiling prices and other factors, including lack of market for lard and less desirable meats. These meats must be marketed in order to give the packer a profit, he stated.

Since the packing house furnished a large share of the meat retailed in Ashland, the plant will operate on a very restricted scale to supply customers with some meat. There is no dearth of cattle and hog supply, Kreiling said, and the plant can operate full time when the price and quota situation is settled.

Whether or not the suspension of operation will create a famine in Ashland remains to be seen. Many retailers will have to look elsewhere for their fresh meat supplies but the demand is not expected to be too great in the next few days due to the last minute meat buying rush Wednesday when housewives stocked up to use their expiring red ration coupons.

CEILING FIXED

WLB Approves Hourly Rate In 3 Area Cities.

The regional war labor board in Cleveland today announced sound and tested going rates for unskilled labor in three Richland county area cities.

Wage ceiling of 57½ cents an hour for unskilled labor was approved for Crestline, Galion and Bucyrus.

Lewis M. Gill, regional WLB chairman, said the rates are ceilings above which the WLB may not approve increases, except in accordance with the Little Steel Formula, or in rare and unusual cases.

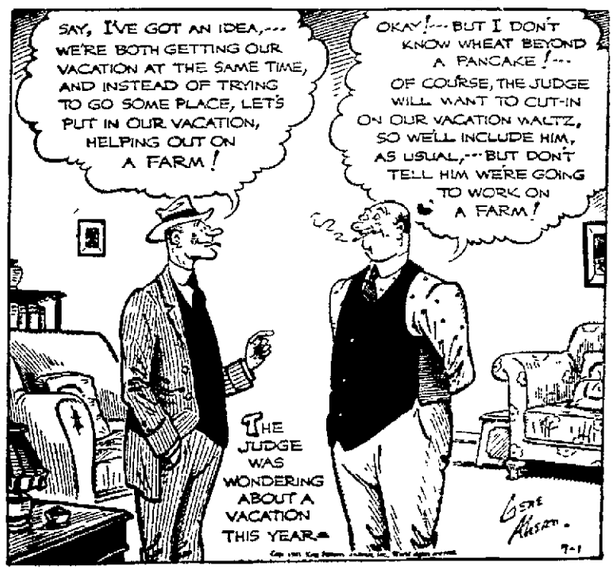
JUDGE PUFFLE— By Gene Ahern



SAY, I'VE GOT AN IDEA,— WE'RE BOTH GETTING OUR VACATION AT THE SAME TIME, AND INSTEAD OF TRYING TO GO SOME PLACE, LET'S PUT IN OUR VACATION, HELPING OUT ON A FARM!
OKAY!— BUT I DON'T KNOW WHEAT BEYOND A PANCAKE!— OF COURSE, THE JUDGE WILL WANT TO CUT-IN ON OUR VACATION WALTZ, SO WE'LL INCLUDE HIM, AS USUAL,— BUT DON'T TELL HIM WE'RE GOING TO WORK ON A FARM!

WIN PRAISE

TOLEDO, Ore. —(INS)— Workers in Lincoln county's major industries, lumbering and logging, were told that they contributed as much to the Allied offensive in Africa as the soldiers who used the wooden materials.

Brig. Gen. Lucias D. Clary, U. S. army assistant chief of staff for materials, notified the workers of the vital need for wood in the war effort. "We are looking to the Pacific northwest for more lumber—the raw material of victory," the telegram read.

MAJOR STOCKS CONTINUE ON UPGRADE TODAY

Steel, Copper, Rubber Lead In Active Opening; Bank Clearings Down.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Leading stocks continued on the upgrade in today's early market proceedings.

Fractionally ahead at a fairly active opening were U. S. Steel, Anaconda, Chrysler, Yellow Truck, Standard Oil (N.J.) Phelps Dodge, U. S. Rubber, General Electric, Philco and Caterpillar Tractor.

Trend analysts noted that bank clearings, as summarized by Dun and Bradstreet in 23 cities for the week ended Wednesday, while well above the aggregate of the like 1942 period, registered a decline of $561,990,000 from the preceeding week. The year-to-year increase was placed at 17 per cent.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Grains renewed their advance at the outset today, wheat and rye gaining about a cent or more in active trade. Congressional passage of anti-subsidy legislation was the main market stimulus.

Wheat started ¼-½ cent higher, July $1.47¼-⅝, September $1.47¾-⅞, and rye was up ½ to ¼, July $1.02¼-1.04.

THEATERS

Guerilla War Song.

China's most popular war song, "Work as One," is heard in America for the first time in Paramount's "China," the picture now at the Ohio with Alan Ladd, Loretta Young and William Bendix. This marching song of China's soldiers, guerilla fighters and workers is sung by millions throughout the embattled nation. It is the theme song of the picture. The all-Chinese choir from Chinese First Presbyterian church of Los Angeles, led by the pastor, Rev. Philip Yung Lee, sang the song for the film's sound track.

Aerial Gunner.

An action story of the sharp-shooting Army Air Corps gunners who blast the enemy ships out of the sky, forms the basis of Paramount's "Aerial Gunner," now at the Madison. The film is timely and features scenes of aerial combat. Richard Arlen, Chester Morris and Jimmy Lydon are seen in the top roles with Dick Purcell and Lita Ward in support. The setting is the Army Gunnery School "Hags" in Texas, where the story was filmed. The co-attraction is a pleasant contrast, "Ladies Day," a baseball story.

Hitler The Beast.

Alan Ladd, Hollywood tough guy, is starred in the Ritz top attraction, "Hitler, Beast of Berlin." The picture is said to present a true and shocking picture of the desires of the Nazi party and its leader, Adolf Hitler. Ladd tops the cast and is supported by Roland Drew, Steffi Duna, Greta Grandstedt and Lucien Prival. It is the first local showing of the film. The companion feature is "Days of Old Cheyenne," a western attraction starring Don "Red" Berry.

At The Park.

The startling picture, "The Most Dangerous Game," starring Joel McCrea and Fay Wray, opens today at the Park. The picture deals with McCrea's and Miss Wray's battle against death on a small island. The two survive a shipwreck and drift toward the island. There they meet a maniac killer who rules the island. The killer loves to hunt—but he doesn't hunt animals, he hunts people. He gives McCrea and Miss Wray a two-hour start and tells them if they fail to escape he will hunt them down. Other Park attraction is "The Blocked Trail" starring the "Three Mus-quiteers."

47 Years In Italy, Released

Last 47 years of their lives spent in Italy, Miss Dora Clark, 78, her sister, Ada, 86, have been released from internment to return to their native England. Their release came after they had written a letter to Benito Mussolini saying that they were the daughters of an English general and not used to the dirt in which they were forced to live following Italy's entrance into the war. They are pictured above at their home at Earls Court, England.

Sweeter Notes Will Get 'Em Up

Reveille will sound sweeter with the new plastic (tenite) bugle adopted by the U. S. Army. It is shown, right above, by its originator, Frank Aman, 62, who also holds the shiny brass bugle which it replaces. The tenite bugle requires no polishing, will not dent, weighs only 10 ounces and requires no "warming up" with practice notes. Its tone quality has been adjudged superior.

RATION BOARD AIDS AUTHOR OF 'WE TOOK TO THE WOODS'

(By International News Service)

RUMFORD, Me.—From her isolated retreat near Middle Dam on the Rangley Lakes. Mrs. Louise Dickinson Rich, author of "We Took to the Woods," expressed pleased furprise at specoal OPA provisions to feed her family.

Sixty miles by boat and trail was too far to go shopping with weekly ration points. The wilderness idyll that had brought her family to fame seemed destined to be wrecked on the rocks of rationing.

"The other day, in desperation, by husband and I went to the nearest ration board, in Rumford and stated our plight to Mr. Harry Cohan," Mrs. Rich said. "I don't know what kind of treatment I expected, but what I got was very patient, intelligent and sympathetic attention to our problem.

"I have the very uncomfortable feeling that I owe OPA an apology for some of the things I have been thinking about it during the past few months."

The author said that she, "like a great many other people," had been assuming that the idea was to make things unnecessarily hard for the general public, "and for the Richs and other persons situated as we are in particular."

The only alternative to starving to death, she declared, seemed to be that of moving to a new home.

Prescott H. Vose, acting director for the Maine OPA, modestly answered Mrs. Rich's praise of the local board by pointing out that ration adjustments in such cases as hers are merely a part of the OPA's responsibility under Section 2, 6 of Ration Order 13.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Folk tales and legend have always been a source of interest to young readers who find glamour in the tales of the people who have gone before them. Two such books are among the newest ones in the children's section of the Mansfield Public library.

THE SUN AND THE WIND AND MR. TODD by Estes and Slobodkin tells us the story of the old dispute about the strength of the sun and wind. The legend ends when the traveler has to take off his coat but their newer story goes on with the story of the traveler, Mr. Todd. Mr. Todd was a weatherman who was very poor at predictions—before the sun and wind took a hand.

BEYOND THE CLAPPING MOUNTAINS by Charles E. Gillham, is a collection of folk tales told in the family circles of the Eskimos in Alaska. The man who collected these stories listened to them in the Kashims or "clubhouses" of the Eskimo villages. Stories are told there because the Eskimos do not read and these are their favorite entertainment. Most of them are told in simple language for the Eskimos who told them in English knew only the simplest expressions.

YANKS SCORE IN BIG OFFENSIVE AGAINST RABAUL

2-Pronged Drive Commanded By MacArthur Points at Enemy's Key Base.

main bases from which Japan might parry the Allied thrusts with its own air force. Meanwhile, Mitchell two-engined bombers bombed and strafed the Salamaua sector in support of operations there.

The scene of the Rendova-New Georgia operations is approximately 200 miles northwest of American-held Guadalcanal and 450 miles southeast of Japanese-held Rabaul. Salamaua is approximately 1,000 miles southwest of Guadalcanal and 450 miles southwest of Rabaul.

Stimson Reports Progress Good

WASHINGTON — (AP) — "Satisfactory progress" by American forces battering the outer Japanese defenses of the South Pacific was reported today by Secretary of War Stimson.

He disclosed at a press conference that the drive which has taken American troops to Rendova in the Central Solomons and Woodlark and Trobriand in the New Guinea area was planned at a conference in Washington several weeks ago of commanders from the Pacific area, and is proceeding on schedule.

"Our forces have reached the outer defenses of Japan and strong enemy reaction may be expected," Stimson said

He spoke of the campaign against the Japanese in the South and Southwestern Pacific as a "coordinated attack on land, sea and air forces."

General Douglas MacArthur, he said, is directing combined operations in those areas and reports are incomplete but satisfactory progress apparently already has been made."

Naval Battle Waited In New Pacific Move

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Launching of a vast Allied offensive aimed at the heart of Japan's Southwest Pacific bastions was viewed in informed quarters here today as the spark that might touch off another momentous and possibly decisive naval engagement.

Observers expressed belief Tokyo's warlords could not much longer avoid another test of sea power if they hope to stem the coordinated land, naval and air drive that began with announcement America forces had landed on Rendova Island and was followed quickly by a series of trip-hammer assaults on key points of the New Guinea area.

That Gen. Douglas MacArthur personally is directing the whole action underscored the full dress nature of the campaign now under way.

As Allied forces moved into position from Nassau bay on the north coast of New Guinea to Rendova and New Georgia islands in the central Solomons—fighting in some places and unopposed in others—it appeared a gigantic pincers movement was being aimed at the strategic and heavily fortified enemy base at Rabaul, on New Britain. Rabaul general is regarded as the center of the whole Japanese structure in the south and southwest Pacific areas.

It was believed here the enemy might be compelled to throw battleships and aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines into a major counter-offensive.

Loss of Rabaul not only would expose the supply lines which link all of Japan's conquered territories in that whole area but would give the Allies a jumping-off place for an assault on the big enemy naval base at Truk island, 1,000 miles to the north.

There was no word on the size of the forces involved, but it was assumed they were powerful since Secretary Knox recently disclosed a great fleet had been assembled in the South Pacific. Other authorities have reported a steady strengthening of all forces in the Solomons.

Japs Admit Yanks Land on Rendova

LONDON— (INS)—Japan today admitted that American forces had affected a landing on Rendova island in the Solomons group.

The Tokyo radio said in a broadcast recorded by Reuter that "battles are still continuing."

Entirely unsubstantiated claims were put forth by the Nipponese announcer who asserted that Jap planes sank or heavily damaged six Allied transports, three cruisers and one destroyer.

The Japs also claimed that 31 Allied planes were shot down in the Rendova area.

The Tokyo station made no immediate mention of the American landings on New Georgia island nearby or the occupation of the Trobriand group and Woodlark island, between the Solomons and New Guinea, as well as the landing at Nassau Bay below Salamaua on the coast of northeast New Guinea.

The Crucible Steel company's mine at Crucible, Pa., employing 900, voted to return to work today, leaving six mines employing about 3,000 idle in the 21,000-member district

Pittsburgh district 5 reported two Crescent mines returned today, leaving nine others, with 8,000 of the district's 36,000 men, idle.

The steel industry meanwhile reopened five of 18 blast furnaces closed during the strike but three others shut down in Alabama.

Five Blast Furnaces Are Re-Opened

PITTSBURGH— (INS)—Although five of 18 blast furnaces have been re-opened following the return of work of some soft coal miners, over 100,000 of the nation's 540,000 coal miners were reported today to be still out on strike

West Virginia reported virtually normal operations among its 130,000 miners but union officials in Pennsylvania feared they could not persuade the miners to return until the Tuesday following the July 4 holiday.

A United Mine Workers spokesman for West Virginia miners predicted that many of that states soft coal miners would work over the traditional holiday

BOY THIEF SHOT

Killed By Policeman as He Flees From Questioners.

CLEVELAND (INS) - A veteran larcenist at the age of 16, Frank Maslaynak was dead today after Detective Sergeant James J. McDonald killed him when he tried to escape officers. It was the first time in McDonald's 20 years of service that he shot a gun other than in practice.

A fugitive from the Boys Industrial school since April, Maslaynak was working for the City Ice and Fuel company when McDonald and two other officers approached him for questioning after a woman reported that she suspected the ice man of taking two watches from her home.

In his effort to escape, the youth was fatally wounded, hit three times by officers' bullets. Maslaynak, with aliases of Masso, Mooney, and Mayro, also was suspected of an auto theft, two burglaries and two robberies.

SEES NEW CURB

Ickes Wars of Tighter Gasoline Limits in Midwest.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary Ickes said today the midwest was closer to tighter gasoline consumption curbs than ever and declared the Pacific coast probably would be restricted more severely, too, before the end of the year.

He added that declining crude oil production in California, plus heavy military demands on that state's output, will almost certainly lead to a deficiency of oil on the west coast before the end of the year that "could and probably would, mean more severe rationing there."

HOODLUMS HURL ROCKS AT CAR

Police Investigate Vandalism In Kingsbury Run Area.

CLEVELAND— (INS)—Cleveland and Shaker Heights police today investigated the Kingsbury Run district where hoodlums have been throwing stones at the Rapid Transit cars, it was reported by one conductor, as often as three and four times a day.

A woman was injured yesterday by flying glass as a rock was thrown through the window of one of the cars of a three car train

Contractor Goes Beyond New 'Deadline' on Program To Eliminate Crossings.

The application has never been granted, Grimes pointing out that the highway department doesn't take action on requests for extensions until the work is done.

After the paving is done, traffic will be permitted to move over the route for the first time in nearly two years, although some follow-up work such as building the approaches to the new paving and seeding the berms will remain to be done later in the summer.

The southern lane of concrete has been completed for some time and the north lane is ready east of the Baltimore and Ohio overhead, Grimes said. Workmen now are laying the concrete between the B and O. railroad and the western end of the project.

Grimes was in Mansfield Wednesday to view prospective sites for the city's airport expansion with a view to relocating State Route 13 at the airport before the work begins, he said.

Civil Aeronautics authority engineers are expected to arrive in the city within a few days to designate a site for the airport expansion and the state highway department will then be able to go ahead with plans for changing the route which now skirts the western edge of the airport, Grimes added.

The division engineer said he also went over plans for the resurfacing of State Route 39 through Lucas and discussed the resurfacing of the approaches to the Mansfield reformatory from State Route 545. He said he urged the Lucas village council to delay the street work there until next year if possible since the state highway program for this year is well under way and funds for resurfacing jobs are running low.

QUOTAS CLIMB

Much More Farm Machinery To Be Available In '44.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congressional farm leaders said today that new agricultural machinery quotas for 1944, soon to be announced by the War Production Board, would range up to 150 per cent of peacetime normal.

Some types of implements, however, will be limited to lesser quantities, down to 45 per cent for certain types of cultivators. The overall allowance will be about 80 per cent of the 1940-41 production and purchases.

GIANTS UPHELD

NEW YORK —(AP)— President Ford Frick of the National league today upheld the protest of the New York Giants of their June 13 game at the Polo grounds with the Phillies and ordered the game continued as of the tenth inning with the score tied 3 3.

The game will be continued on Aug. 6 preceding the regularly scheduled game, with both clubs using identical lineups as of the end of the ninth inning, in so far as is possible.

Manager Mel Ott of the Giants protested that Babe Dahlgren of the Phillies had deliberately stepped in front of one of Ken Trinkle's pitches in the ninth inning and should have been called out, retiring the side. Umpire Beans Reardon ruled Dahlgren should remain at bat. Dahlgren then hit a double, scoring two runs and later scored himself to give the Phillies a 6 3 edge.

Commenting on Redding's retirement, Schell said: "When Mr. Redding took charge of the Mansfield rent office, there was a rather difficult job to do. GIVES WARNING

'Spokesman' Declares U. S. Likely To Be Bombed.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A vigorous warning that the United States might be subjected to aerial bombing by the Axis enemy this summer was voiced here today.

D. C. Speaker, the mythical district of Columbia spokesman who however, frequently represents authoritative sources who will not be quoted by name, said:

"No major military damage could be inflicted by such raids, but the Axis could well be counting on utilizing such raids to create a frantic defensive psychology within this country in an effort to compel the Allied command to pull back its strength to the home front to satisfy public clamor.

"If they succeed in any such plan it would prolong the war indefinately and result in an enormous waste of life."

that his personal motive was deliberately or intentionally to delay the war effort.

"Our difficulties have had to do with strong differences of opinion with regard to the quantities of various products to be obtained at a given time and place. That there should be these differences of opinion may reflect upon the judgment of the individuals involved but such differences do not reflect upon the desire of the individuals to serve their country."

Jones promptly shot back:

"Mr. Wallace tonight repeats that delays of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have retarded the war effort. This dastardly charge is as untrue as when he first made it. As for the rest of his statement, Mr. Wallace was not authorized to speak for me. I will continue to speak for myself and as previously stated I shall insist upon a congressional investigation."

TOKYO ROCKED BY EARTHQUAKE

Thousands Flee To Streets As Tremor Strikes.

LONDON — (AP) — A Tokyo broadcast, recorded by Reuters, reported today that buildings in Tokyo were shaken by an earthquake of a minute's duration, which caused thousands of persons to run into the streets in search of safety.

A Tokyo radio broadcast, recorded by the ministry of information, said the center of the shock was located at Shimotsuma, about 50 miles northeast of the Japanese capital. In Tokyo damage was said to have been confined to the walls of older houses.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JULY 1, 1943.

War saves civilization, but brutalizes it, and it takes time to grow civilized again.

It was a Portland (Maine) observer who explained: "A salary is always round numbers, like $25 a week; a wage is an odd figure like $97.61."

Elimination of one Davis brings another Jones to the Washington scene—thus making it difficult to keep in mind who is being seathingly rebuked by whom.

Isolationists Are Quiet But Busy

REVIVAL of the same influences that prevented United States participation in some form of association of nations for the preservation of peace after the first World war is detected in early maneuvering of temporarily silenced isolationists to nominate a sympathizer at next year's Republican national convention.

Drew Pearson, in today's installment of the Washington Merry-Go-Round, touches on this subject in a revealing way and gives an idea of the long look ahead that is being taken by isolationists in the matter of trying to force their views on the country in connection with post-war planning.

It appears that Ohio's governor, John W. Bricker, or Senator Robert A. Taft, would measure up to requirements of isolationists as being acceptable in serving their purposes.

Such a dependable Republican as Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, said in one of his recent "Way of the World" articles: "In a burst of not wholly unprecedented stupidity the high command of the Republican party has left Herbert Hoover, Wendell Willkie, Alfred Landon and Charles Evans Hughes off its new council to consider problems of the postwar world. . . . The Republicans may have a chance of kicking the New Deal and its ruinous policies out of office but it is a slim chance if factionalism within the GOP cannot be eliminated. . . . Republicans lacked unity during the last campaign, have lacked it ever since, and bid fair to lack it as woefully between now and next June as they do today.

"At least a wing of the Republican party will be out and out isolationist. That wing may be strong enough to dominate the convention and nominate that kind of a candidate. In that event, the party will lose at the polls, and richly deserve to lose.

"Since I was 21 I have usually voted the Republican ticket because it seemed to me it has taken the better position on great issues and offered the stronger candidates . . . but there are limits to partisanship beyond which I can never go. I should gladly make speeches and write pieces in favor of the re-election of Franklin Roosevelt rather than do anything to help elect a Republican isolationist. . . . I don't propose to have on my conscience the record that I did even my little bit to help elect an isolationist president of the United States, and thereby did my miserable part in promoting World war III."

A frightful price is now being paid for the two decades of national lethargy that resulted largely from isolationist preachment and pressure against military preparations for resumption of war.

Once and for all, isolationism should be firmly banned from post-war planning and the United States should be made ready to take its proper place in association with other nations pledged to restoration and maintenance of peace.

Serious Food Shortage Looms

THE FACT that the federal government has made a muddled mess of farm production dare not be accepted as justification for neglect of things that must be done locally, and as a state-wide activity, to relieve what threatens to become a dangerous food shortage.

"There is no longer any question about the seriousness of the farm labor problem," says Guy Dowdy, state supervisor of emergency farm labor, in a letter to the News-Journal. "After studying the problem of providing adequate farm labor, I am convinced that crops are going to waste in Ohio this year unless city people realize that food production and conservation is a community responsibility—there just isn't enough labor to do the job."

Mr. Dowdy, whose headquarters are in Columbus, says that within the past five days applications have been received at his office for 1,200 hybrid corn detasselers, over and above the number available in the counties from which calls came.

"We need 7,000 for the state," he says, "and if hybrid corn is not detasseled during the four weeks between July 20 and August 20, we will not have adequate seed corn in 1944, which will automatically cut all production of corn, thus reducing the quantity of eggs, milk, hogs, etc., in 1944 and 1945."

This presents but one angle of the whole complicated problem of food production and emphasizes the point that solution must be local rather than national. Importance of co-operation in Richland county efforts to produce and conserve farm and garden foodstuffs cannot be too strongly stressed.

Somebody Will Have To Work

YOU can bank on this," says Henry Ford in a magazine article. "There is no future without work. Efforts to construct a workless economy are doomed to fail."

Mr. Ford is qualified to say this, because his whole career exemplifies what he preaches. It is a timely statement. Too many Americans, especially of the younger generation, have seemed to regard life in this favored country as a cornucopia, always ready to provide an easy living by the simple process of tipping up a golden horn and letting its riches pour out.

There are still limitless riches in this country awaiting development, but it will take thought and sweat to get them. New discoveries, new methods, new visions, may be expected when the war ends.

They will not be waiting, however, piled up and overflowing, when America turns from war to peace. They will have to be dug from the rocks and harnessed in the streams and gained by plenty of thought and sweat. But science is ready to do its work as never before. And if the young men of the rising generation tackle the reconstruction problem as they are tackling this war, America can soon be a bonanza land again, with greater opportunities than ever for keen minds and willing workers.

Comparison of Warplane Losses Reveals Allied Air Superiority

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

THE UNPRECEDENTED hammering which the Allied air fleets are administering to the enemy in blazing a trail to victory—a historic experiment which may determine how far air power can go in winning a war on its own—is bringing me numerous inquiries about the aerial fighting arm, and among them are two timely questions from prominent newspaper editors:

The first query relates to American warplane losses and asks what percentage of our craft are shot down by enemy planes and what percentage by anti-aircraft fire from the ground. Well, there are some highly interesting facts wrapped up in this inquiry, but there also is considerable dynamite from the standpoint of the censor.

Percentage figures on American plane losses are restricted, because they would lend themselves readily to computation of total strength of the air force.

However, it can be said that the ratio of our plane losses throughout the world is one army plane to somewhat better than three enemy planes. In addition to this over-all score, separate records show that in the South Pacific theater army flyers have destroyed better than five enemy planes for each American plane lost.

It's impossible to break down our plane losses into those destroyed by enemy planes and by enemy anti-aircraft guns, because flak from the ground guns can cripple a plane, after which fighters can shoot it down, leaving it a matter of guesswork as to which type of opposition caused the loss. Even our army airforce doesn't attempt to determine this point.

* * *

THE SECOND inquiry points to the frequent reports from abroad that British pursuit planes—that is, fighter planes—have escorted American bombers in raids on the continent. My correspondent says this is calculated to give the impression that our army is without fighter planes, and asks what the truth is.

There are several reasons why army fighters aren't mentioned more frequently in dispatches from Europe, but none is based on lack of such planes. Indeed, some of our army fighters, notably the P-38 and the new P-47, are considered by many pilots as the best of their kind in the world.

One reason why we haven't heard more about American fighters from Europe is that Britain in its defensive war had for years been building fighters, which are essentially defensive war-craft, and had great numbers of such planes in England. This made it unnecessary for our army to concentrate on fighters there and we devoted our energy to offensive planes—the bombers.

Another pertinent reason is that our bombers, notably the Flying Fortresses, have great fighter power and can operate on bombing missions without fighter protection. These giants have a score of better than seven or eight enemy planes shot down for each Fortress lost.

As to the fighters themselves, they have destroyed better than four enemy ships for each army plane lost in actual combat. The P-38 which, although designed for higher altitude work, can work at any height, has proved to be well beyond expectations in battle in North Africa, the Middle East, Algeria and the Pacific theaters.

Pilots flying the Lightnings in the South Pacific have said that they can knock down Jap Zeros "like sitting ducks." Frequently a single lightning has gone after a flight of Zeros, shot down three or more, and returned undamaged.

The Lightnings also are extremely husky, and have rammed Zeros, tearing the enemy planes to pieces while remaining capable of flying themselves.

The army also has the Warhawk P-40, which has proved itself in combat; the P-51 Mustangs which are highly praised by the British, and the P-39 Bell Aircobras, which have seen service principally in Russia at the hands of Russian pilots who praise them highly for strafing and low-level bombing. Officially Russia has reported the P-39's score over German planes as three to one.

And just getting into action is the newest of army fighters—the P-47 Thunderbolt. If this comes up to expectations it will be the top plane in aerial combat. It hasn't been in action frequently enough yet to permit of evaluation of its capabilities, but it does have higher speed than anything in the air, and an almost unlimited altitude.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, July 1, 1923.

Mansfield's birth rate for 1922 was slightly lower than for 1921 the bureau of census announced.

Mr and Mrs Paul Bovard and son Robert, 53 Sherman avenue, left on a motor trip through the east.

Little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Stephenson fell into lake at North park and was rescued by Roy Nixon.

Birth reports: Daughter to Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Heffelfinger, 21 Williams avenue, daughter to Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Russell, 381 Springmill street.

Floyd Mattox and Carl Doerman were injured in automobile accident west of Mansfield.

Miss Helen Fisher and Glen C. Young were married at St. John's Evangelical church by Rev. G. A. Kienle.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hall returned from wedding trip through the east.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Two "firsts" took place on this day. In 1847 the first U. S. postage stamps were placed on sale at New York City. In 1790 the first National census was started. It showed a population of 3,929,214.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"Look Willis! Harvest time!!"

Dave Boone Says:

IT LOOKS like it's just a question which will last the longer in Washington. The Davises or the Joneses.

* * *

The rows between individuals down in Washington have now developed into rows between whole administrations, with Hank Wallace charging that the RFC is obstructing the BEW, or Board of Economic Welfare.

* * *

Mr. Wallace is in a dither because Jesse Jones doesn't sign checks fast enough and sometimes hesitates long enough to read the requisitions and sort of look into it from a business angle. He complains of "unnecessary caution" and "thinking of dollars and cents." Unnecessary caution, as some New Dealers see it, consists of looking to see if a net is there before jumping out the window.

* * *

Of course if Jesse Jones or anybody else deliberately slowed up ammo or other items for our fighting men, nobody will excuse him, but nothing in this Texan's record supports a suspicion he's that kind of man. A Gallup poll on whether most folks in a tough spot would rather have Jesse or Hank in their corner would be mighty interesting.

* * *

But I wish all the fighting on this side of the water would stop. We aren't opening the second front on the Potomac river, are we?

Timely Editorial

Hoodlum Fringe.

If a democracy can admit existence of a lunatic fringe without losing face, certainly it can confess its nervous awareness, also, of its hoodlum fringe.

This is the section of the population most susceptible to trouble. It has no discipline in itself and no appreciation of discipline in others. Its hatreds and prejudices spring unbridled from the caverns of its abysmal ignorance.

Its passions are so many tinderdry shavings to be set afire by the first spark struck into them by accident or intention. When that happens, riots follow as naturally as fist-fights follow any contact between undisciplined human beings whose emotions are fired easily.

The hoodlum fringe in every country's constant reminder that much remains to be done before civilization can be called an accomplished fact.—Canton Repository.

As Others See It

Happy Solution.

It has been suggested that we ought to double federal taxes, bringing the total to 70 billion dollars. This proposal is based on the sound theory that the other fellow would do all the paying.—Kansas City Star.

Looking Ahead.

When helicopters come into general use, women drivers will create quite a traffic problem because two more directions, up and down, will complicate the matter of trying to guess which way they'll go.—Columbus Dispatch.

Anti-Willkie GOP Leaders Favor Chicago as 1944 Convention City

WASHINGTON—The manner in which old line GOP leaders are already maneuvering backstage to pick Chicago for the Republican national convention next June indicates the deadly grimness with which they are out to do two things: (1) block Wendell Willkie (2) dominate the Republican platform in regard to post-war isolation.

To this end, reactionary GOPers are pointing out that Chicago is the most important convention city in the country; is in the center of the U. S. A.; that more political gatherings have been held there than in any other city.

Backstage, however, what they are whispering is something else again. In private their chief argument for Chicago is the fact that the anti-Willkie, pro-isolationist Chicago Tribune dominates the city.

To hold the convention under the protecting wing of the Tribune, they figure, would be a powerful influence in putting across their candidate and platform. If the convention gets deadlocked, there is nothing like the constant day-to-day pounding of a big newspaper to stampede delegates.

On the other hand, liberal Republican leaders want the convention held in a more neutral city such as Cleveland or Detroit. They accept the geographical advantages of Chicago, but maintain that Detroit or Cleveland are just as centrally located and not dominated by the Tribune.

* * *

Interventionist Wing.

MEANWHILE the non-isolationist peace bloc inside the Republican party is growing. They believe that the United States cannot possibly pull in its horns from world affairs after the war, and that it would be political suicide for the Republican party to take the lead in so doing.

Typical of this new, more liberal wing is Montana's GOP National committeeman Dan Whetstone, a member of the GOP advisory committee which will meet soon to formulate future foreign policy.

Whetstone's peace proposals, briefly summarized are:

"A world police force, under law, disarming of the Axis nations, punishment of the tyrannical Nazi and Fascist leaders of Germany and Italy and the arrogant war lords of Japan.

"We must help the nations that have lost their sovereignty and should permit them to establish the form of government that to them seems best, encouraging the aspiration of democracy but not insisting that any particular system of political or social life be adhered to; broadly we desire to realize human freedom, making sure that at all times it is not of such pattern as to breed dictatorship and set up a menacing military machine to threaten the future peace of the world."

* * *

OCD Survey.

OFFICE of Civilian Defense has made a house-to-house survey of U. S. cities, gathering information. Block leaders in some of the poorer sections have done an abbreviated, unique job of reporting. Samples:

"Man hit by automobile—speaks broken English."

"This woman is ill. The gas has been turned off."

"Sophie is married to a sailor, and her whereabouts are unknown."

"Woman and house neat but bare."

"Couple breaking up home; friends helping."

"Milk needed for the baby, and father unable to supply it."

"Woman is willing to struggle if given an opportunity."

"Applicant and wife are illegally separated."

"These people are extremely cultured. Something should be done about their condition."

"Until a year ago, this applicant delivered ice, and was a man of affairs."

* * *

Churchill the Prophet.

STUDENTS of air power have dug up an old statement of Winston Churchill's written in 1917, which reveals an amazing foresight in the possibilities and limitations of aerial bombing.

As everybody knows, the Nazi blitz against England, intended to terrorize the people, failed in its objective. On the other hand, the more scientific bombing of the continent by the RAF and AAF—strategic bombing—is now expected to bring Hitler to his knees.

Churchill seemed to foresee both of these developments when he said in a paper on Air Power, written in 1917, that nothing we know about warfare can lead us to believe that bombing for terror alone can cause such a morale collapse as to force a major nation to sue for peace.

Church emphasized that air power must single out and attack transportation, factories, and other enemy installations, upon which the enemy war-making ability depends.

England's survival of the blitz gives dramatic support to the first part of that statement, and Allied air power is now proving the second part.

Navy Notes on Knox.

SECRETARY of Navy Knox now saves time by lunching in his office instead of going out. A special kitchen has been rigged up next to his office, and the mess boys serve Knox in a private anteroom. . . . He always invites other officials to lunch, talks business. . . . He eats no dessert, talks no siesta. . . . Knox's day begins with a 9:30 meeting with Admiral King and other admirals, discussing war developments of the previous 24 hours. Admiral Train, chief of naval intelligence, gives them the latest news. . . . For a conference with Secretary of War Stimson, Knox generally goes to Stimson's office across the river, since Stmison outranks him. . . . But if several admirals are to be involved in the conference, Knox telephones to Stimson and says, "Harry, can you come over to see us?" . . . Knox goes to church every Sunday—when his wife is in town. . . . One of his best friends in Washington is John Sullivan, assistant secretary of treasury. Both men come from the same home town—Manchester, N. H. . . . Though a Republican in a Democratic cabinet, Knox is credited with playing no politics.

Farmer's Diary

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE LIMITED

IT WAS TIME for the limited to pass through the village on the main line. I waited, for there is something stirring about a luxurious, speeding train. I heard the broad whistle far down the track, but instead of slowing only slightly, for the mail, as usual, it drew to a stop for just two minutes.

It happened that I stood outside the dining car. Through the window I saw a table spread with a spotless cloth, in which creases of folds were clearly visible. Cut flowers—two small roses and some maidenhair fern—were in the center.

At one side sat a well dressed young woman and at the other a child of about six. Mother and daughter. The child's first train ride, probably, she was so eager.

They were dining on fried chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, fresh tender peas and strawberries. An ice cube floated high in each water glass.

When the train started, it caused only a small ripple in the water of the glass. The diners were hardly conscious of its motion. It glided away, as smoothly as a sled over snow. I was left,—one farmer in overalls upon the station platform of an obscure village. I walked along the tracks toward home.

Every piece of limestone for ballast seemed to be in its place. I sighted along the huge steel rails and found them even, to the fraction of an inch. The grass about the right-of-way was mowed and discarded, creosoted ties had been taken away or burned. The stone bound ties and the zone beyond were free of any green blade or weed.

Just around a curve, by a heap of new timber, I saw a workman sit with a long heavy hammer near his right hand. He had built a small fire with a tripod of green sticks. From the center, upon a wire a piece of bacon was suspended, sizzling in the flame. As the fat melted, he held a long loaf of thick crusted bread to catch the drippings—then cut off that slice, and ate it.

Here was the guardian of the tracks—the inspector who made it possible for the trains to run so smoothly that not even the water in the glasses of the diner was disturbed. He wore no uniform—only a soiled cap that fitted over a head of shaggy iron gray hair. His skin was darkly tanned, his dark eyes expressive.

I passed, but when I had turned off, toward my own gravel road, I put up an arm to him. He had been watching me, and he waved and smiled.

The dining car folks do not think about him. They don't know he is there . . . unless something goes wrong. They don't see me either, most likely, in overalls and straw hat, with a basket of eggs. It doesn't matter. We keep them rolling—and eating.

ERNIE PYLE Roving Reporter

Correspondents Well Treated By Army Men; Ernie Tells About Very Strange Happening.

NORTH AFRICA—(By Wireless)—As I have said before in these columns, the army is almost without exception good to correspondents at the front. I have never yet been treated uncivilly, and usually officers and men will go out of their way to help you.

I remember one instance when another correspondent and I were making a trip of several hundred miles in a jeep with half the windshield missing. Riding behind a glassless windshield gets pretty rugged, even in good weather. All along the way we would drop into motor pools and ordnance depots, trying to get some glass. But there simply wasn't any.

Then one day we happened to stop at a small camp merely to inquire the way to a nearby airdrome. And the officer in charge asked out of a clear sky if we would like to have our windshield fixed. We said we sure would, but there wasn't any glass. He said:

"Maybe we can find some. Since you're staying all night at the airdrome, just forget about it. I'll find your jeep where you leave it, and we'll fix it."

And sure enough, a couple hours later here came the officer and two men with a nice piece of glass. They had cut it from the windshield of a wrecked Flying Fortress, and it made a much better windshield than the original.

There was no reason for them to do it at all, except that they were just nice people. Our benefactors in this case were Lieut. James O'Connor, of Worchester, Mass., and Sergeants Ernest Kelly, Spokane, Wash., and Lawrence Hunter, Pensacola, Fla.

I am having medals struck off for them on my private medal-machine.

* * *

THE other day at one of the airdromes I got to talking with a young fellow who is one of four brothers in service. Such an odd thing happened to them last year that I think you'd be interested in hearing about it.

This young man is Sergt. Ray Swim, who used to work in Denver but whose real home is Grand Junction, Colo., where his father is a farmer. Ray's three brothers are also sergeants, to-wit, Sergt. Ralph, at Lowry Field, Denver; Sergt. William, at Fort Logan, Denver, Sergt. Orville, somewhere in Australia.

Now we go back to the spring of 1942. Ray was then in the bombardier school at Midland, Tex. He got a few days' leave and decided to go home. He just got on a train and started. He didn't even let the folks know he was coming.

When he got off the train at Grand Junction he bumped into one of the other brothers, who had also just arrived from camp unannounced. What a coincidence, they thought.

They shook hands and walked around the corner, and there was a third brother, under the same circumstances. And before they got out of town, damned if they didn't pick up the fourth brother, who had also arrived home unexpectedly.

So there they were—neither of the four had known the others were coming, their parents hadn't known any of them were coming, and it was the first time the whole family had been together in five years. And to top it all off, it happened on Mother's day.

The boy's mother was almost overcome. They thought for a while they would have to call a doctor for her. But I don't think the doctors know how to prescribe for sheer joy.

* * *

IF THERE is one single scene that could be described as typifying North Africa to the American soldier, it's the sight of a ragged Arab standing along the roadside holding up an egg between his thumb and forefinger, trying to sell it. Through this individual bartering I suppose the Arabs have sold billions of eggs to American soldiers. Apropos of this, Bill Stoneman of the Chicago Daily News and Drew Middleton of the New York Times were riding along one day and Bill remarked that he supposed the most difficult feat in Africa would be to reverse the process and sell an egg to an Arab. Drew said, "Oh, I don't know," and the bet was on.

Drew bet 200 francs he'd sell an egg to an Arab before Sept. 1. No tricks will be allowed. It has to be a legitimate sale, although Drew is permitted to sell as cheaply as he wishes. So now you see him, every time he goes out into the country, jumping out of his car at frequent intervals, rushing over to a bunch of Arabs, holding out his egg and starting his pleading sales talk of "Oeuf, deux francs." The Arabs just turn and walk away.

Drew admits privately that he has slight hope of winning his bet. It's harder than selling coals in Newcastle. And the worst part of it is that Drew, being honest, won't palm off stale merchandise, so he has to go out and pay five francs for a fresh egg every time he starts on one of his futile selling trips.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT PAY DEDUCTIONS

Here Are Replies To Most Frequent Queries on Pay-Go Plan.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Still confused about the new pay-as-you-go income tax system? Here are the answers to some of the most frequently asked questions:

Q. Is the withholding tax a new or additional levy?

A. No. It is simply a method of collecting currently your regular income tax and victory tax.

Q. Does the 20 per cent withholding mean that 20 per cent of my pay check will be withheld each payday?

A. No. Exemptions, even for a single man with no dependents, bring the amount considerably lower.

Q. What are the exemptions?

A. For single persons $624 a year, for married persons $1,248 and for each dependent $312. On a weekly basis this is $12 for a single person, $24 for a married person and $6 for each dependent.

Q. How does the exemption work if both my wife and I are employed?

A. The personal exemption may be divided and each take one-half, or one may claim all. Each has the same victory tax exemptions.

Q. What happens to the first and second quarterly installments I paid March 15 and June 15 on my 1942 tax liability?

A. Both are treated as part payment of the 1943 tax.

Q. What happens if my exemption status, which I filed with my employer, changes?

A. You should furnish your employer with a new withholding exemption certificate within 10 days of such change.

Q. Will exactly 20 per cent of my pay above my exemption be withheld?

A. Not necessarily. Your employer may elect to use wage bracket tables which vary slightly from exact computations. This short cut method is provided to simplify your employer's job of computing the amount to be withheld for each worker.

Q. Hasn't a large part of my last year's tax been cancelled?

A. Yes, from 75 to 100 per cent, depending upon the amount of your taxes for the years 1942 and 1943.

Q. When will the part not cancelled have to be paid?

A. You will pay it in equal parts in March 1944 and March 1945.

Q. Does my employer have the use of money he has withheld?

A. No. The money is a special fund in trust for the United States and is turned over by your employer to the treasury, representing your credit against the amount you owe on income and victory tax.

Q. What proof have I that I have that much credit against my tax liability?

A. Shortly after the close of the year or termination of your employment your employer will furnish you a receipt showing the amount he has withheld from your pay.

Q. Will I have to continue to file a regular income tax return on March 14 as in the past?

A. Yes. The withholding levy is simply a method to collect approximately the amount you will owe, but must make a final return just as in former years.

Q. Suppose when I make my return next March I find that more than enough to pay my tax has been withheld?

A. The excess amount either will be refunded to you or credited against other income taxes due from you.

Q. How can I continue my regular purchase of war bonds through the payroll savings plan now that the withholding tax is going into effect?

A. It should be just as easy as it has been in the past since this is not an additional tax but merely an installment or pay-as-you-go method of paying your regular annual income tax.

Q. Are any workers exempt from the withholding tax?

A. Yes. Certain specified classes, including members of the armed forces, farm labor, domestic servants and ministers of the gospel.

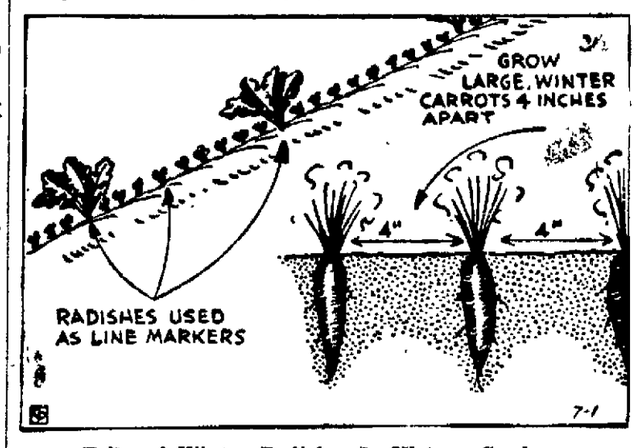
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Fall and Winter Radishes In Victory Gardens.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Released by Central Press Assn.

Many gardeners mix radish seeds thinly with seeds of other vegetables that are slow to germinate. The radishes grow quickly, thereby marking the rows so that cultivation can be started earlier than it could otherwise. While some gardeners practice blind cultivation, few have the courage or desire to take such chances with their cherished vegetables.

The use of radishes as line markers is illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Grafh. Early in the spring radishes are ideal as markers for parsely. At this time of the year they can be used as line markers for beets and carrots which are slow to germinate. Sown, now, the summer radishes will provide crisp roots during late July and early August.

Winter radishes are worth storing for use during the cold months. Such radishes should be planted in mid-summer or later, as they need cool weather upon reaching maturity. This variety requires from 60 to 75 days to mature. Plant the winter radishes in rows 12 inches apart and, as illustrated, thin the plants to four inches apart when they are established. These large winter radishes require deep cultivation. Side dressings of a commercial fertilizer help to produce especially fine roots.

Winter radishes are left in the soil as long as possible. They will stand considerable frost, but must be pulled and stored before heavy frosts arrive. They should be stored in a cool place.

WANTED: 50 Million Fur Coats

By DOROTHY ROE

There are some fifty million women in America, and most of them intend to buy a new fur coat this year.

The reason is that the family car is all paid for now, and all other household gadgets which used to cut such a hunk out of the budget—new refrigerators, radio, vacuum cleaners—are out for the duration. So there's a surplus in the family sock, and mom has always wanted a good fur coat anyway—not a bargain basement number, but something really super.

Window Shopping.

So mon and pop are window shopping these days, taking their time and looking over all entries, and they'll end up by investing in something handsome in the way of Persian lamb, beaver or maybe even mink.

After all, says mom, it isn't often that you have money left over after paying the grocery bill, and what could be a better investment?

All this explains why fur dealers are working 24 hours a day to supply the demand for luxury furs, why business is booming in the fur department of every store, and why wartime America has become suddenly and terrifically fur-conscious.

Any Price.

Shoppers may spend anywhere from $50 to $25,000 for a fur coat this season. The $50 model will be coney (rabbit to you) and the $25,000 one sable or chinchilla. In between, in the $500 to $1,000 class are handsome new styles in beaver, Alaska seal, high quality Persian lamb, nutria and even mink The latter, however, is hard to find at $1,000, the better skins selling at from $2,000 up per coat.

Styles this year are smooth, casual, designed to slip on easily over suits or step out with evening gowns. The favorite style is loose, boxy, three-quarter length, with wide straight sleeves, roomy armholes, practically no collar, and a tuxedo or straight closing. There's a Chinese look to many of the new Persian lamb and broadtail coats, with collarless necklines and straight, loose cut, often with side vents.

That's the situation up to now on the American fur front, and it looks like a banner year.

Women of the Moose Have Year's Final Party

The Women of the Moose, Mansfield chapter 47, held its final large party of the season at the Moose lodge, Wednesday night, in charge of Miss Ruth Roesch, graduate regent, and in honor of the new candidates admitted to membership since January of this year.

An unusual and amusing program was presented in the lodge room, under the direction of some of the Loyal Order members. They were Paul Ritchie, Ed. Wylie and John DePue. They were in charge of a "quiz" program and awarded prizes to members for correct answers.

Miss Roesch introduced the new officers for the coming year. Mrs. Lester Perry, retiring senior regent, presented Mrs. Louis Zeller with a gift for having brought the largest number of members into the chapter during the past year. Mrs. Perry also gave Miss Roesch a certificate of graduate regency.

The Lock children played "Evening Shadows Waltz" and "The Dancing Doll" in accordion selections. Miss Martha Piper won the club prize. Refreshments were served buffet style from a long table, decorated with lighted tapers and garden flowers in crystal baskets, in the Fiesta room. Mrs. Gilbert Mast and her committee were in charge.

June Bride Has Quiet Wedding

Miss Helen Bell Poulton became the bride of Ralph Lee in a quiet ceremony read by Rev. R. O. Stahl in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Thompson, 521 Lily street. Sunday afternoon.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father wore a pink sheer dress with blue accessories. Her corsage was of pale pink roses.

Immediately after the ceremony, a small reception was held for 18 guests, after which the couple left for a wedding trip in the southern part of Ohio.

The newly married couple will make their home in the Chalfern apartments. Both are employed at the Dominion Electric company.

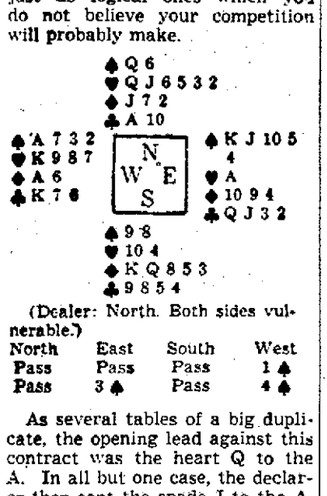
"The Authority on Authorities"

FIND A DIFFERENT WAY

Playing in a big duplicate game including a number of rather evenly-matched pairs, you need a goodly share of top scores usually to gain a prize. In your bidding and play, it will help you to figure out frequently what you expect will be done at other tables and try to see if you can't find something different which is equally sound. This should not be misinterpreted to steer you into unsound moves, but only into those just as logical ones which you do not believe your competition will probably make.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

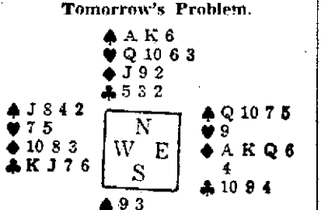
North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

As several tables of a big duplicate, the opening lead against this contract was the heart Q to the A. In all but one case, the declarer then sent the spade J to the A, the 2 back to the K, and then led the club 2 to the K and A. North fired back the diamond 2 to the A. In an effort to make six-odd, the declarer then led to the dummy's club Q and J. If the outstanding ones had been divided, the club 3 would have furnished a discard of the diamond 6, and so prevented any more losers. But it did not, so he lost a diamond and so scored a total of five-odd.

In the remaining case, West saw that most players would, by habit, play the clubs by leading first toward the K. So he led the other way deliberately. Hence North had to use his A without killing an honor. That made the fourth round of clubs high in the dummy, the J making possible a discard of the diamond 6. Consequently that declarer lost only one trick, to the club A, and was "high on the board."

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

After East had bid diamonds and South got into 4-Hearts on this deal, what is perfect defense against perfect play by South?

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, July 2.

Being prepared for some sudden and quite unpredictable situation, and ready to grasp it with direct energy and courage as well as with skill should result in promotion, preferment or other high honor or favor. This may react upon the love life as well as on domestic and social or romantic adventures.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of unlooked for opportunity for advancement or promotion in position, with preferment and favors from those in high places as well as from public, community or group sources. This propitious time should be grasped with clever and energetic attack, but within the bounds of logic and reason. Enhanced popularity and prestige should rave happy reactions on the private affiliations, probably in sudden engagements or marriage, or sentimental, social or domestic celebrations of public importance.

A child born on this day should be richly endowed with forces and faculties as well as with exceptional opportunities to forge to the front in its career. It may enjoy a happy and romantic life.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky could not say "Touche!" to Katharine, but I knew that he was good sport enough to waft it to her mentally, as he squared his shoulders to meet my father's momentary irritation.

"There isn't much to plan, sir," he said, "except to be sure that the wilderness woman isn't accompanied by any strong arm escorts."

My father nodded.

"That will be attended to," he said. "I don't think she will bring anyone with her to your door, but if she does, there will be guards door as far as the night chain will in the hall. When you open the permit, you can tell the lady that she may come in, but that Mrs. Bicket is ill, and you cannot have more than one person coming into the apartment at a time. Then she can take her choice of coming in alone, or of going away again."

Dicky's face registered a distinct hope that Ruth would not go away, but wisely, he said nothing, and my father went on:

"If she comes in, then what?"

"I'll engage her in conversation," Dicky said, "and watch for her cues. I'll also watch for any stray stilettos or pistols she may have concealed in her clothes.

"But," he went on, swiftly, "as I told Madge a little while ago, I think we ought to have a couple of men concealed on that balcony outside."

"I agree with you," my father said promptly. "That's a very good idea, and it will be attended to at once." His tone held only approval now, and I saw that his irritation had vanished. "Anything else?" he asked crisply.

"I can't think of anything," Dicky said. "As I understand it, you don't want her to see Katharine, and you want me to deflate her until she is rather desperate with impotent anger. I hope I can do a satisfactory job," he concluded.

"I am confident you can," my father assured him. Then he turned to Katharine.

"What about you?" "Where do you plan to be? With Margaret?"

"No, indeed," Katharine told him. "I want to be as far away as I can get, out of sight and out of hearing. I'm going into the bedroom and lock the door."

"I have a better plan," my father said. "I shall tell Milner that I intend to sleep in the suite next to this tonight and that I do not wish to be disturbed. Then you can go in there, and go to bed if you wish. Lock yourself in, and you will be completely out of this."

He considered for a second, and then looked at me with a whimsical smile. "I think I'll provide myself with a box seat for this performance, if you don't mind, Richard," he said.

I guessed that Dicky had winced at the idea, but, after all, it did not matter, and I knew that the thought of a hidden audience would spur him instead of hampering him, so I did not waste any sympathy on him.

"Of course, I don't mind," he said cordially. "Anywhere you wish."

"Then I think I'll take the bedroom," he said. "I'll turn the lights out and leave the door ajar. When she knocks, I'll slip into one of the closets, for fear she might take a notion to look into the bedroom. Then when she's settled, and talking, I can slip out again, I can be noiseless, you know."

We did know. He can compete with an Indian in his stealthy movements, and Dicky voiced the thought of all of us:

"She'll never hear you," he said, "and I shall be glad to have you there."

"I wouldn't bother," my father answered, "except to give me a line on what the Wilderness Woman is like when she gets really venomous, as I imagine she will do. I have to plan for that interview of hers with Hal Meredith tomorrow afternoon when she is going to stage that blackmail scene, and I need all the knowledge of her that I can get. I shall watch your treatment of her with the greatest interest, Richard."

He rose and walked toward the bedroom door.

"I'm going over to the other suite," he said, "to go over some things I've been neglecting. Will you all have dinner with me there later—say at 7?"

"Delighted," we told him in chorus, and then he was gone, and Dicky was looking at me with sudden gloom.

"I'll never be able to do my stuff properly with both you and him listening," he said.

LIBRARY HAS NEW BOOK ABOUT LINCOLN'S WIFE

Anne Colver Tells Story of Mary Todd In Novel To Be Released Saturday.

In her book, MR. LINCOLN'S WIFE, Anne Colver tells the story of the most gossiped about woman of Washington in her day and of the nation for many years. The novel, among the new volumes to be placed on the shelves at the Mansfield Public library Saturday, tells a story based on fact.

The book is a well-written and sympathetic portrayal of Mary Todd as she really was—her mistakes, good intentions, impatience, tenderness, happiness and disillusions.

WINTER'S TALES by Karen (Dinesen) Blixen is a collection of eleven tales, strange, exotic and subtle. The author has had only two books published previous to this one—namely, "Seven Gothic Tales" and "Out of Africa." Both were selected by The Book-of-the-Month club and were hailed as modern classics, the author being compared to all the great story-tellers. "Winter's Tales" should find a welcoming audience.

THE GAMBLER TAKES A WIFE by Myron Brinig is a sophisticated western novel which concerns a girl educated in the east, whose father runs a gambling house and dance hall in Sage Brush, Montana. Upon her return with her prospective husband, and his sister as chaperone, she finds her fiance a "sissy" and decides to marry Jim Jennifer, a local gambler. Montana was having growing pains in 1880, and a gambler was no longer quite acceptable, but Jim was no gentleman—and while the fact got him into trouble, it also got him out of it again.

Other fiction includes: THE VOYAGE OF CAPTAIN BART, Erskine; EVERGREEN HOUSE, Hauck; THE CASE OF THE BURIED CLOCK, Gardner.

The growing interest in our democratic ally in the Far East lends particular importance to ALL WE ARE AND ALL WE HAVE by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. This little book is a collection of the speeches and messages of China's leader which have been written and delivered since Pearl Harbor. The actual span covered is from December 9, 1941 through Nov. 17, 1942.

THE BATTLE FOR BUENOS AIRES by Sax Bradford is a detailed description of actual workings of the three-pronged Axis assault upon his great city: the intricate organization of German nationals, Mussolini's attempt to bring into line the huge Italian population, and the subtle campaign of the Spanish Falangists to sell reaction in the name of Iberian culture. The author also outlines the strategy that the United States must employ to win the battle for democracy in this key city.

AFRICA: FACTS AND FORECASTS by Albert Q. Maisel is a highly readable and clearly organized handbook of Africa, past, present and future—the early campaigns and the political problems. Finally, region by region, the author gives the pertinent facts of each African territory, state, and mandate, each accompanied by a map for easy reference.

THE PIRATE by Samuel N. Behrman is the text of the play introduced by Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne during the past year. "The Pirate" was suggested by an idea in a play by Ludwig Fulda. The scene is an unnamed island in the West Indies, and it tells the story of the charming, bored wife of a dull husband, and a handsome mountebank who brings excitement and romance into her life.

Other non-fiction includes: ISLAND OF THE PACIFIC, Daniel; WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE SIGNAL CORPS, Davis; AIR NAVIGATION, Zim; AEROFOIL AND AIRSCREW THEORY, Glaudbert; INDEPENDENCE FOR INDIA?, Johnsen; AMERICAN WOMEN OF SCIENCE, Yost; SHE'S OFF TO MARRIAGE, Alsop and McBride; HIGH IRON: A BOOK OF TRAINS, Beebe. PEWTER, SPUN, WROUGHT and CAST, Osburn and Wilber; BRAZIL BUILDS, Goodwin.

CHAPTER XIII

Arrived on shore, the lieutenant escorted Elder up a side street to what appeared once to have been a schoolhouse; now, however, the Stars and Stripes hung above its doorway and the sidewalks before it was patrolled by steel-helmeted United States Marines. Within the lobby was a table behind which sat several officers and yeomen; Elder was asked to identify himself and his ship and then was handed a slip on which was the number: Fifty-eight.

"This way, sir!"

He found himself in a crowded classroom the walls of which were panelled with blackboards. Seated at the rows of little desks were not brighteyed Canadian school children, but elderly, florid and portly sea captains of a dozen nationalities. They bulged over the edges of their benches, they fumbled with thick, unaccustomed fingers among their pencils and notebooks, and stuffed their dead cigar butts into the dried-up inkwells before them. Several, apparently succumbing to the nostalgia for boyhood engendered by their surroundings, were passing the time by throwing spit-balls.

"Tiens, Captaine Elder! Alors, comment ca va, mon vieux—Okay?"

"Fine! Fine! How are you, Captain Le Prieur? Oh, and there's Captain Vanderhoven! Well, well, well! How goes it, Van?"

"Ach, well enough! Glad to haff you with us, Elder! Say, did you see old Captain Papadoulos sitting over there in the second row?"

"Nick Papadoulos? Where? Oh, sure! Hello, there, Nick! How's Cornelia? How's little Miltiades? Say, after we get through here, let's all get to . . ."

* * *

"Gentlemen! Good afternoon!" A navy captain tapped his pencil on the rostrum and then paused for silence. "Gentlemen! I have the distinguished honor of presenting Rear Admiral Thomas Hartridge, United States Navy, your convoy commander. Admiral Hartridge!" He stepped aside and bowed to a pink-faced, blue-eyed old gentleman who wore the broad gold stripes of his rank and three rows of decorations, including the azure white-starred ribbon of the Congressional Medal of Honor. There was a shuffling sound as 73 sturdy merchant captains rose respectfully, if ponderously, to their feet.

"Thank you, gentlemen! Please be seated! Ker-humpf! Ker-hem! Well, gentlemen, the ships of this convoy, designed as Convoy Two-Eleven, will put to sea tomorrow at the respective times which will be given you individually in sealed orders at the close of this meeting. Immediately upon weighing anchor, each ship will display its number, as shown on the slips now in your possession, by means of a hoist of flags of the International Signal Code. You will proceed directly to the point of rendezvous, the co-ordinates of which will also be designated in your sealed orders. There you will assume your convoy positions according to your numbers, as shown on this diagram. —Ker huff!"

He took up a pointer and turned to the blackboard, on which was chalked

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17	18	19	20
21	22	23	24	25	26	27	28	29	30
31	32	33	34	35	36	37	38	39	40
41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49	50
51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60
61	62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70
71	72	73

* * *

"Now, you will please observe, gentlemen, that our convoy consists of seventy-three vessels, not including the naval escort. Normally, we will proceed in the formation shown here, spaced as closely as visibility and general conditions permit. In order to take your position, or to recognize and regain it if you lose it, you have only to match your own number with those of the ships around you. Thus, if your number is 36, the first number of the two ships abeam of you must be 3 and the first numbers of the ships fore and aft of you must be 2 and 4, respectively. Is that clear?"

There was a pause, then an assenting rumble of voices arose from the merchant skippers.

"Good! But now let us suppose, that, due to enemy attack or other causes we are suddenly forced to alter our course ninety degrees to port. What then? Why, then, Ship Number 36 will have 6's abeam of him and 5 and 7 fore and aft. It follows, naturally, that if the change of course is ninety degrees starboard, he'll have 7 ahead and 5 astern."

"Jezu," came a plaintive voice from the back row. "Ees complicate!"

Admiral Hartridge smiled benignly in its direction. "Ah, yes, ker-hem! I realize that all this may sound a trifle involved to some of our, er, gallant allies, ker-haff, but we have arranged to have it explained to them by interpreters, directly after the meeting. Er, ker-hem!" he referred to his notes. "Er, naturally, the strictest radio silence must be maintained, although your receivers should be in operation and manned at all times. Inter-convoy communication will be maintained by four means, to wit: blinker lamp, whistle, flag, and, when practicable, loud speaker."

* * *

The admiral took a drink of water.

"And now, gentlemen, we come to the matter of enemy attack. Although most of you are armed, it is not always possible, in a closely-spaced convoy, to bring your guns to bear without danger of hitting a neighboring ship; therefore, the main responsibility for our defense will always rest with our naval escort. Your chief concern must always be to hold your proper position—to keep the convoy intact. However . . ." he pursed his lips and spread his hands. "However, I know it is unnecessary to remind you that through engine failure, weather conditions, enemy action or whatnot, you may become separated from the convoy. The entire convoy may be scattered, even! Well," he shrugged, "In that case, it's every man for himself—or rather I should say, it's every ship for Murmansk! Yes, Gentlemen!" he banged the rostrum with his fist, "Head for Murmansk! Your cargoes must get through!" He stood for a moment looking down at them, to make certain that the gravity of his words was fully realized.

"And now," he resumed, "I shall touch briefly upon my own functions as convoy commander. My command ship, the S. S. Cortez, 22,000 tons, formerly of the Antilles-Caribbean Line, can readily be identified by its size. It will carry the signal Number 00—double zero. Its normal position in the convoy will be slightly ahead of ship No. 5, and it should be watched for signals at all times. In the event of the convoy changing course, as described to you a few moments ago, I shall take up position ahead of Ship No. 51, if the change is to port, or ahead of No. 50, if the change is to starboard. Note that I will always be ahead of a Five. Er—just let me make that clear . . ." He took up a piece of chalk and drew curving arrows around the diagram to indicate the shifts in position.

"Ker-hem!" he smiled, a far-away look in his eyes. "Looks rather like a diagram of a football play, doesn't it gentlemen? A run around right end! Yes, it might actually be a diagram of Rocket Rockwell's famous run in the Army-Navy game in '39, when he . . . Eh? What's that? What did you say, Captain?"

"Nothing, sir!" said Elder, reddening.

"Oh, come, Captain! Yes, you did!" Admiral Hartridge beamed down upon him with the cordial bon homie of one football fan for another. "Please speak up! What was it you said, er, Captain, er Captain Number Fifty-eight?"

Elder felt that all eyes in the room were turned upon him. "I said damn!" he confessed, challengingly.

"Ah?" The Admiral raised his eyebrows. "And why did you say damn, Captain?"

"Rocket Rockwell is my son-in-law!"

"Indeed? Indeed? Well, Captain," Admiral Hartridge was no longer beaming and his tone was cold and severe, "I don't know whether you're trying to belittle a great football hero or to capitalize on your family relationship with him. Whatever the case, I feel that your bringing up the subject at this time is in distinctly, er, questionable taste! Ker-huff! Ker-hem!"

SOLDIER CHIDES DAD FOR HIS PART IN WAR PLANT STRIKE

(By International News Service)

CINCINNATI—How the men in the armed forces feel about work stoppages on sorely needed war materials was brought out forcefully by Pvt. Frank W. Niemeyer, jr., in a letter to his dad.

The elder Niemeyer is employed in a Cincinnati war materials plant where a short-lived strike recently halted operations.

"I love you, Old Man, but I'm a bit ashamed of you at present," Niemeyer wrote his father from Buckley field, Colo., where he is serving in an air corps ground crew.

"What would you say if all us boys went on strike?" the letter continued. "What if the boys on Guadalcanal, or Bataan or in Africa just gave up and quit?

"Pop, we need those shells badly. If I don't come back it might be because I needed just a few hours' output of those shells you are making."

Niemeyer, sr., read and re-read that letter. He said he was inclined to agree with his son.

AIDS GRADS

EASTON, Pa.—(INS)—Lafayette college graduates who need help in their research work or who seek a clearing house for their inventions will be aided by the newly-formed Lafayette College Alumni Research foundation, it was announced recently.

The foundation, originated by Dr. Charles J. Thatcher, New York consulting engineer, offers to assume control and disposal of patent rights offered it, either pending or issued. Federal aid may be sought to encourage the development of inventions useful to the government, Dr. Thatcher said.

RATION BOOK JITTERS

LOS ANGELES, Cal. — (U.P.) — The rationing board here fears it may have to institute rationing restrictions on ration books for Earl M. Harvey. He lost his ration book No. 1 and while he was at the rationing board's room arranging to get a new one, he lost his ration book No. 2.

When Bowels Refuse to Move Easily—Watch Out!

Forcing! Straining! — a Common cause of Hemorrhoids—Here's Easy Quick Way to Moisten Hard Dry Passages

When because of constipation you wake up mornings feeling half sick, headachy, with a stomach that rebels at food, tongue coated, bad breath; upset and "out-of-sorts" — bowel movements an effort—you want relief and you want it fast.

In a glass of hot water put one teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts and drink. 15 to 20 minutes later follow with your usual breakfast cup of hot coffee or tea. Moisture is promptly fed into those hard, dry wastes softening them so they can be more gently and easily expelled. Usually within 30 minutes you get glorious relief and should begin to feel bright and refreshed again.

Take only as directed. Try Kruschen for 5 days—for you can so regulate the dose as to bring about that "easy" movement such as you have long desired.

Don't delay — Get Kruschen Salts for prompt and effective relief from forcing and straining. Ask for it today at any drug store. (Muir's Cut Rate Drug Store.)

U. S., BRITISH SUBJECT AXIS TO 'RUIN PLAN'

Worst Still To Come In Wake of Ruhr Destruction and Mediterranean Advance.

Also significant were the two American Liberator raids last week on Axis airfields near Athens and Salonika, an aerial pointer toward a possible Balkan invasion route, and inauguration by the RAF of a bombing shuttle service between Britain and Africa with an important raid on both the outbound and homeward trips.

Capt. Sir Harold H. Balfour, under secretary of state for air, told the house of commons yesterday that the RAF alone was dropping bombs on Germany at three times the 1942 rate.

Reliable estimates placed the RAF's June bomb deluge delivered from homeland bases at a record 13,500 tons, topping by some 1,000 tons the May record of 12,500 tons. A great proportion of this June destruction was spread upon the Ruhr in nine major attacks, including the assault on Duesseldorf on June 11 by the war's greatest heavy bomber force.

The Eighth Air Force lost 82 bombers in June against 62 in May, but because of the expanded operations the increase was not considered excessive. In their 13 nights of operation, the RAF fliers lost 269 planes, the highest monthly total of the war.

From Middle East bases, American heavy and medium bombers carried more than 2,155 tons of explosives across the Mediterranean to Axis objectives in 2,314 sorties during the month with the negligible loss of three big planes.

The northwest African air force destroyed 258 Axis planes during its month-long assault on Italy's Mediterranean islands and the Italian mainland while itself losing 64 American and British aircraft.

It unloaded about 8,500 tons of high explosives during the month.

Claims Battle of Ruhr Has Been Won

LONDON—(INS)—The battle of the Ruhr has been won, the Daily Herald air correspondent declared today.

While more air raids on the cradle of the Nazi war machine may be necessary to complete the Ruhr devastation and to prevent rebuilding of war manufacturing plants, the RAF bomber command's main objective has been achieved and the main weight of aerial assaults on the Reich may be expected to shift soon to targets farther afield, the writer said.

He declared the Ruhr's output of war material has declined 35 per cent and the whole of German war production by 20 per cent as a result of the Allied pre-invasion aerial onslought.

Royal air force losses in raids on Germany and Czechoslovakia during the last six months were placed at nearly 1,000, approximately 600 of which were lost in attacks on the Ruhr. During the same period about 7,000 RAF fliers were killed or captured, the writer said.

Berlin Admits Subs Suffer Setback

(By Associated Press)

The Berlin radio testified today to a marked reduction in the efficacy of German submarine warfare last month broadcasting a DNB dispatch which listed the U-boat toll of Allied shipping in June at 20 ships totaling 107,000 tons, but implied this was only a temporary setback. The enemy claim represented less than one-seventh of the reported sinkings in March—149 ships.

Declare British Troops on Move

LONDON—(AP)—The German-controlled Paris radio said today British troops stationed in northern England and in northern Ireland had been transferred to southern England "in anticipation, it is believed, of events scheduled for July 3."

Axis broadcasts since Monday have been alternately suggesting and discounting this coming Saturday as the possible date of an Allied invasion attempt. The Paris broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

Adds U. S. Award

American decoration, the U.S. Distinguished Flying Cross, now is added to the medals on the chest of RAF Wing Commander Billy Drake, above, of Chatham, Kent, England. Commander of an RAF Kittyhawk squadron operating with the U. S. Ninth Air Force, he already had received the British D. S. O. and D. F. C. with bar.

British Report Axis Sinkings

LONDON—(INS)—British submarines have sunk three and possibly five Axis vessels in operations "in Italian waters," the admiralty announced today.

"Further reports have been received from submarines which now are conducting operations in Italian waters," said the communique.

"They sank a large transport, a large supply vessel and a medium supply vessel."

They are believed to have sunk another medium supply ship and a fifth vessel.

U. S. Bombers Pound Italian Air Fields

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA —(AP)— United States bombers and fighter-bombers of the northwestern African air force blasted Palermo and four Axis air fields on Sicily yesterday, virtually without opposition from enemy fighters, it was announced today.

(The Italian high command communique, broadcast from Rome and recorded by the Associated Press, reported "great damage and many casualties" att Palermo, a port of northwest Sicily. Sardenian targets also were attacked, the communique said. Fires were started and several buildings destroyed in Cagliari.

(Submarine pressure upon Axis supply lines continued. The London admiralty announced that British submarines had destroyed a fast transport and three supply vessels and probably had sunk a fifth ship in Italian waters, boosting to more than 20 the number of enemy craft sunk or damaged in the Mediterranean during the last week).

The attacks by flying fortresses, Mitchells, Marauders, Warhawks and Lightnings came after RAF Wellingtons, in a pre-dawn attack, smashed again at the enemy at the ferry terminus and freight yards of Sessina and also at the road south of San Giovanni and San Marco, on the nearby Italian mainland.

French Coast Area Under Air Attack

LONDON —(AP)— Enemy targets along the French coastal area were reported under attack by Allied planes last night as Britain itself passed the seventh consecutive night without a raid.

British Mustangs, Typhoons and Spitfires had a field day yesterday with Axis transportation in France and Belgium by shooting up more that 20 locomotives to boost the bag to well over 30 in a 24-hour period. Two planes failed to return.

A German radio broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said Red Cross trains, each carrying 400 persons, were being used to remove mothers, children and old persons from that bomb-ruined district.

Dispatches from Bern, Switzerland, reported that the great Allied air offensive has produced a serious housing shortage in the frequently-bombed districts.

Reveals Eisenhower Backing For Giraud

LONDON —(U.P.)— Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander in North Africa, personally intervened in the French situation to ask that Gen Henri Honore Giraud be retained as French military commander to avoid impeding the war effort, Prime Minister Churchill revealed today.

Speaking in commons, Churchill said Eisenhower's request was backed by the authority of both the United States and British governments and that it was made solely on military and not on political grounds.

The British government, Churchill said, had not taken sides in the French political arguments adding that it was hoped the members of the new French committee for national liberation "will merge their personal and individual interests for the common good of France."

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

VETO LOOMS

FDR Could Crack Back at Bill That Kills Subsidy Plans.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt today receives from congress a bill repudiating his policy of using subsidies to stabilize prices and wages with the possibility that a stinging veto will upset congressional recess plans.

Congressional action also left the president, temporarily and technically, without the giant commodity credit corporation, which is an important part of the administration war program.

Passage of the bill extending life of the credit corporation—which expired last midnight—was accomplished late yesterday. The bill will not be sent to the White House until this afternoon.

The measure carries the Wolcott-Aiken-Gillette "farm bloc" amendment which outlaws use of subsidies in the roll back of meat and butter prices and forbids use of subsidies in the future for price control purposes without congressional action.

NAME COURNARIE

French Pick Successor to Boisson In Africa.

ALGIERS —(AP)— The French Committee of national liberation today named Pierre Charles Cournarie to succeed Pierre Boisson as governor general of French West Africa, where the Dakar naval base is situated.

Cournarie had been governor of the Cameroons under an appointment made in November, 1940, by Gen. Charles De Gaulle.
